SAANICH VETOES AMALGAMATION OFF-STREET PARKING SQUEAKS BY

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Early Start —Mayor

A bylaw to borrow up to $1,000,000 for a downtown off-street parking facility was approved by the city ratepayers yesterday, by a narrow margin.

The vote was 3,741 to 2,325 in the first count, or a shade under 62 per cent in favor. The bylaw required a 60 per cent majority to pass.

COUNCIL DELIGHTED

The mayor and aldermen were delighted with approval of the bylaw, and Mayor Percy Scurrah and city engineer James C. Garnett promised a quick start on the work that must be done before a View Street parking building and associated pedestrian malls become realities.

"I'm very definitely pleased about the parking plan," Mayor Scurrah said.

PREPARATORY WORK

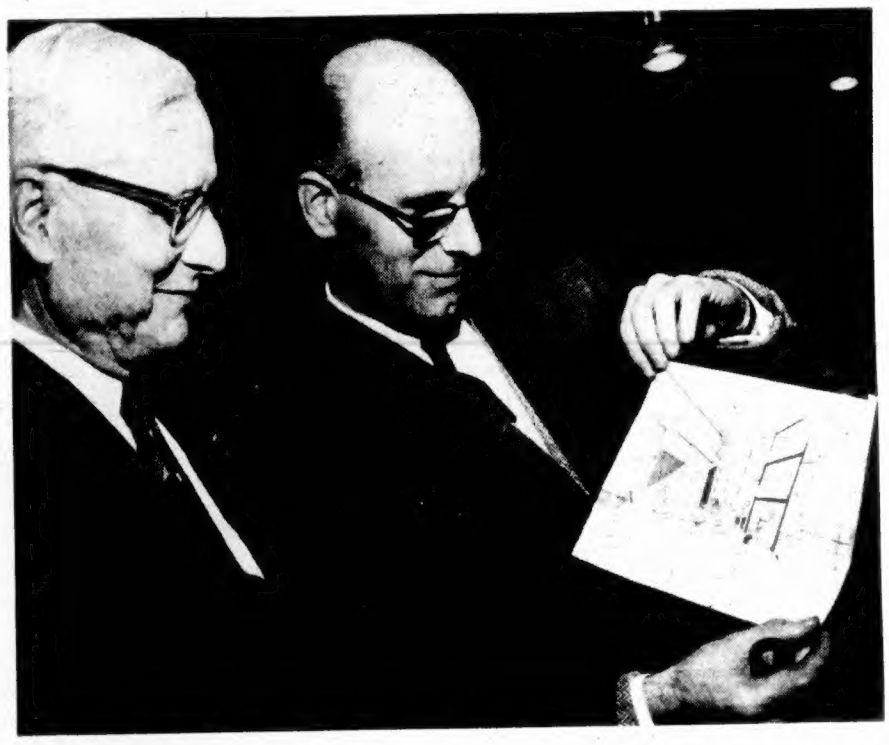
"We certainly will start the preparatory work right away. Acquiring the property is going to take quite a while, and I think it will take about three months to prepare the detailed plans."

Approval of the bylaw, he said, "assures the continued health of the downtown shopping area."

SOLVE PROBLEM

"I'm delighted to see the parking plan passed," said Ald. Arthur Dowell, and Ald. Elmer McEwen said he was "happy, and now we can proceed to solve the problem."

City council has pledged that the money borrowed to build the initial parking building will be repaid from the increase in revenue resulting from doubling of parking meter fees. City Engineer James C. Garnett recommended in his parking report, however, that the fees remain as at present until the off-street parking is provided.



Parking Plan Pushers Happy with Go-Sign

Really in high gear now that city voters have given it the green light is Victoria parking scheme. Happiest pair in town about the ratepayers' approval are Mayor Percy Scurrah and City Engineer James Garnett, chief architect of plan.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Mother Stricken

John D. Speeds Home

WAIRAKEI, N.Z., Friday (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker has cut short his world tour by five days and will fly home to Saskatoon this weekend where his 86-year-old mother has suffered a stroke.

He was expected to reach Saskatoon about noon on Sunday.

The Prime Minister announced his early departure after a message relayed by Acting Prime Minister Green in Ottawa said Mrs. William T. Diefenbaker had suffered a stroke on Tuesday night in University Hospital in Saskatoon. The report said she was recovering well with no paralysis. A further message yesterday said her condition was good.

The elderly Mrs. Diefenbaker, in poor health for some time, has been in the hospital for more than a year.

Diefenbaker, his wife and brother, Elmer, and other members of his party were to have spent two and a half days resting at this resort centre from their arduous world trip before leaving for home.

That was all ended with the prime minister's concern over his mother's condition.

Mrs. Diefenbaker broke her hip earlier this year. Two days ago she suffered a mild stroke, rallied for a time, but her condition apparently has not improved much since.

Doctors have talked with the prime minister on the telephone and kept him posted.

The prime minister's mother celebrated her 86th birthday in hospital on Oct. 26.

City Not Upset

Victoria ratepayers voted two to one in favor of union with Saanich yesterday. Saanich ratepayers voted two to one against it, and slammed the door on the amalgamation question, perhaps for years.

Reaction among most city leaders was that Saanich would be sorry.

Reaction among Saanich leaders was mostly: "We're glad, and now let's get down to meeting our own problems in our own way."

COULDN'T CARE LESS

Mayor Percy Scurrah said he "couldn't care less" about the Saanich vote.

"We are in such good financial shape that amalgamation for years to come is not an urgent problem for the city."

Additional election pictures and stories will be found on pages 6 and 15.

Reeve George Chatterton of Saanich issued a warning that with the rejection of amalgamation, Saanich council would have to adopt stringent policies to safeguard the municipal interests.

VOTE DECISIVE

"I am happy the vote was decisive, over and above the fact that the word was 'no,' he said.

Coun. Leslie Passmore, perhaps the foremost opponent of amalgamation in Saanich, said he was gratified and hoped Saanich council would "now have the opportunity to go ahead with the business of Saanich without the constant harangue over the desirability or otherwise of amalgamation.

"I am sure that this council and the city council can work

West Faces Risk of War

MUNICH, Germany (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev indicated yesterday that any Western attempt to crack an eventual blockade of Berlin by force would result in war.

In a telegraphic interview with the Munich Sued Deutsche Zeitung, Khrushchev charged that the West could have only one motive in maintaining military forces in West Berlin—"to prepare a hot war."

"Many hotheads in the western military permit themselves such irresponsible statements as that they could break through to Berlin with troops and tanks," Khrushchev said.

"But is it not evident that this would mean war, because the other side, too, has tanks and other, more powerful weapons which would not be kept idle?

"If the western powers reject the status of a free city for West Berlin, no basis is left for negotiations with the western powers on the Berlin question," he added.

Threats Leave U.S. Cold

Heavy Blow For Fanfani

ROME (UPI) — Premier Amintore Fanfani suffered a stinging new parliamentary defeat last night that struck a further blow at the waning prestige of his centre-left minority government.

The Italian chamber of deputies rejected as unconstitutional an important decree that would have given the government authority to regulate food market prices.

By Balloon

Ocean Leap Starts

SANTA CRUZ DE TENERIFE, Canary Islands (Reuters)—Four British balloonists—including one woman—took off from Medano Beach near here early yesterday in an attempt to drift 3,000 miles across the Atlantic to a point somewhere between Honduras and British Guiana.

The balloonists expect the trip to take from one to three weeks but have packed enough food for three months into the 15-foot by eight-foot gondola under the balloon, called The Small World. In an emergency it is designed to become a boat.

Members of the team are A. B. Elloart, 51-year-old company director, his son, Timothy, a Cambridge University undergraduate, and Mr. and Mrs. Colin Mudie.

Fire Took 642 Lives

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP)—Dominion Fire Commissioner Christopher Thompson says fires in Canada last year claimed 642 lives and entailed a loss of $133,787,-883, world's highest on a per-capita basis.

Colonist 500 Fund Jumps to $4,840

The Colonist 500 Christmas Fund jumped to $4,840.28 yesterday, better than $9.75 for each of the 500 most needy families in Greater Victoria district.

Last-minute spurt for money for the campaign starts this weekend when the Christmas spirit is expected to really hit this area. It is less than two weeks to Christmas and the fund will have to be shut off by Saturday, Dec. 20, so cheques can be mailed to needy persons in time for them to get out and do some last-minute Christmas shopping for those little extras that bring joy at Christmas.

Cash donations are deductible for income tax purposes and should be mailed to the 500 Christmas Fund, 2631 Douglas, or taken to the Colonist's office at the same address, or to the downtown business office at 1215 Broad Street.

Device Cuts Smoke Tars

NEW YORK (AP)—A small metal cylinder, intended to lessen the tars in cigaret smoke, was shown Thursday.

The device, the inventor claims, reduces tar formation in cigaret smoke by 41 to 72 per cent.

The cigaret is inserted into the open end of the three-inch cylinder.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

LATELY I was shown some petit-point pictures made by a Victoria lad who is in the penitentiary for a long term. They were cunningly contrived portraits in many colors, built of thousands of tiny stitches.

"Why can't some way be found to market this work?" I was asked. The boy felt that everybody was against him. Now he's making these pictures. He's studying music. He's hoping to sell his work and pay for an instrument.

"If somebody doesn't show some faith in him, he'll just retreat into his shell, and become embittered."

I made some inquiries, and learned that inmates of the B.C. penitentiary do in fact sell the hobbycraft wares they make.

They ship the stuff out and have friends market it for them. Visitors to the penitentiary also buy prison-made goods, and anyone who wishes may go to the gate of the penitentiary near New Westminster and ask to be shown the wallets, copper pictures and other things that the boys make.

Last year, $28,000 worth of material was sent out. Of this, about half was sold; the other half went as gifts to relations.

Inmates of the penitentiary buy their raw materials; contribute 10 per cent of the value of finished articles toward a fund out of which loans are made to those who have no money to buy hobbycraft raw materials.

Among other articles, inmates turn out leather wallets and belts, slippers, coffee tables, jewel boxes, hooked rugs, woven waistcoats and skirts, Dresden craft figurines and lamps, fishing lures and toys.

At one time they made youngsters' cowboy outfits complete with holsters for the guns, but the management of the prison outlawed the holsters as being suggestive of violence, a danger to security.

Some of the goods are marketed through bazaars.

However, as far as I can learn from here, no regular retail outlet for prison-made goods exists.

One scheme for selling hobbycraft gadgets was proposed in New Westminster, but it rapidly folded up when local businessmen complained that prison-made goods would be unfair competition.

A prison hobbycraft store in Vancouver failed because of mistakes in management.

Setting up an outlet for prison hobbycraft might be a worthwhile project for a service club that wasn't afraid of getting into an argument.

But a club would have to go into such a plan with eyes open. Hobbycraft—at least as presently run—is not an important factor in rehabilitating prisoners. The John Howard Society, already desperately overloaded with pressing tasks in the guidance of prisoners and former prisoners, hasn't felt itself able to do much in the handicrafts field.

Some of the money that prisoners make from handicrafts is squandered on a big binge after they get out.

A group that undertook to sell prison-made goods might do so on the understanding that only part of the proceeds would be paid to the prisoner on release; the remainder would be kept in trust and paid to him a little at a time.

Parents' Hands Tied, Rules Judge

Can't Change Religion

High 'Fire' Act

On their annual gathering for public training demonstration, Roman firemen give a striking show of their acrobatic ability as they climb up step ladders building them up higher and higher. The show is staged on Dec. 4, the day of St. Barbara, the protectress of firemen, sailors and gunners.

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Manitoba Bar News says that Chief Justice E. K. Williams of the Court of Queen's Bench has ruled, in effect, that a parent cannot change a child's religion.

The Bar News says the chief justice has ruled against the placing of a Roman Catholic child in a Protestant home for adoption.

The News says in its current issue that the case "casts a shadow of illegality over many adoptions made during the last decade."

The case, Blunderfield versus Jamieson, concerns a child baptized a Roman Catholic on March 25, 1956, about two weeks after birth. At the mother's direction the child was cared for and lived in a Protestant home.

The Bar News says that before May 30, 1956, the mother signed a declaration authorizing adoption, with the approval of the Manitoba welfare department, and also signed a "Protestant authorization for adoption."

The authorization contained the words "It is my desire that my child be placed in a Protestant home and raised in the Protestant faith," the Bar News says.

The mother later sought to regain custody of the child under a writ of habeas corpus and was successful. The adoptive parents and the provincial government decided against an appeal.

The chief justice said: "The child is a Roman Catholic child. It is such by the preference of the mother shown when she had it baptized. It is made once and for all and the mother lost the power to consent to the child being placed with a Protestant family."

"The Bar News said: "In effect, we have a judgment which states emphatically that a parent cannot change the religion of her child. This is a most amazing proposition.

"Suppose that the mother changed her religion — would the child continue to be a Roman Catholic in the eyes of the law?"

Ontario Leads Way

Strikes Cost B.C. Fewest Lost Days

A preliminary survey of man-days lost due to strikes and lockouts in Canada for October, 1958, show quite clearly that other provinces have been responsible for a much greater proportion of the time loss than British Columbia, Labor Minister Lyle Wicks said yesterday.

3-10ths OF 1 PER CENT

He said the survey indicates that the total Canadian man-days lost was 828,890. Of this total British Columbia had only 2,774 man-days or 3-10ths of 1 per cent.

But, on a year-round basis, Mr. Wicks said, British Columbia's time-loss picture is pretty well parallel with the rest of Canada.

UNREST HERE FIRST

"The results of the survey bear out what I said some time ago to the effect that British Columbia was experiencing a period of industrial unrest first and other parts of Canada would experience the same thing later," he said.

During October three disputes in Ontario accounted for 91 per cent of the time loss in all Canada, he said.

Judge Tired of Run-Around

Obey or Else, Hoffa Ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts ordered the teamsters' union yesterday to comply promptly with the clean-up orders of a court-appointed board of monitors or face a new legal crackdown by the court.

Letts issued a series of rulings siding completely with the two-member majority of the monitors in their showdown fight with teamsters' president, James R. Hoffa.

He banned the scheduled mid-March teamsters' convention designed to shed the monitors, accused Hoffa and his subordinates of trying to "frustrate and block" the clean-up drive and ruled that the watch-dog group had the power to issue orders that must be obeyed.

Letts made plain he felt he could remove Hoffa and his associates from office or punish them for contempt of court if they continued to defy the monitors he appointed last January as an aftermath of an anti-Hoffa suit by rank-and-file union members.

"Remedies are not lacking in our judicial processes," he said, "if the orders of the court are violated, disregarded or ignored."

Letts' ruling was certain to have a sharp impact on future teamsters' operations. Hoffa had contended that the three-member monitors' board had power only to recommend — not order — reforms in the giant, 1,500,000-member union.

In bringing the dispute before Letts last month, board chairman Martin F. Donoghue accused Hoffa specifically of defying the monitors on 10 specific orders. He told the judge that Hoffa has been giving the board a run-around.

In siding with O'Donoghue, Letts told the teamsters he expected "prompt compliance" not only with the 10 existing orders but with any future demands of the monitors.

INCREASING TOLL

South Africa had 1,761 persons killed in road accidents in the first eight months of 1958, against 1,467 in the same period of 1957.

Aged Hope for Lifts To See Decorations

Victoria senior citizens are still hoping to see the Christmas lights and decorations downtown—courtesy of volunteer drivers.

Mrs. Ethel Bevan, in charge of the Silver Threads "rides for the aged," said yesterday response to an earlier appeal had been "poor."

"But those who did have a chance to go downtown were thrilled," she said. "We only hope this experience will be extended to many others who are cooped up in their little rooms all year round."

Those wishing to volunteer their services to take elderly citizens Christmas shopping or to see the lights, should contact Mrs. Bevan at EV 2-5121.

Delayed Report Irks Fruit Men

KELOWNA (CP) — Secretary-treasurer J. MacLennan of the B.C. Fruit Growers' Association said Thursday members of the executive are "very disappointed" at news that the report of the royal commission on the tree fruit industry will not be released before Jan. 15.

The executive was informed Wednesday by Agriculture Minister Steacy that the report, compiled by Dean E. D. MacPhee of UBC, will not be available until next year because of delays at the Queen's printer.

With the growers' association annual convention scheduled to start Jan. 20 in Vernon there will be little time for growers and delegates to study the report in advance, Mr. MacLennan said in a statement.

"It now appears certain that a special convention or general meeting of the association will have to be held at a later date for consideration of the report."

The executive in a letter to Mr. Steacy Wednesday, urged that plans be made for release of the report "just as soon as it is available."

Small Boy Survives Wild Ride in Culverts

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) — Six-year-old David Dunn escaped without serious injury Wednesday after falling into a fast-running drainage ditch and being swept through four culverts in a wild ride with death.

Two schoolboy companions, a woman and an unidentified man who dragged the youngster unconscious from the swirling waters, saved David's life.

He was lying face down in the ditch, one foot caught in a tangle of weeds at the bottom of the four-foot-deep drainage channel.

His mother, Mrs. William Dunn, said David had slipped and fallen into the ditch while playing. He was carried headlong through four 30-inch-diameter concrete culverts, one 22-feet long and the others shorter.

He was carried about half a city block by the water.

Mrs. L. Thorson, a neighbor of the Dunns, and a passing motorist saved the boy after his young companions, Peter Glasgow and David Gilmore had shouted for help. Mrs. Thorson was unable to pull David free from the weeds [illegible] motorist.

The boy was revived about 30 minutes after being pulled from the water. His face was badly scratched but no serious injuries resulted.

Five Ocean Ships Lose Battle with Ice

MONTREAL (CP) — Sluggish Lake St. Peter—a bulge in the St. Lawrence River between Montreal and Trois-Rivieres—froze over Thursday and trapped at least five ocean-bound freighters.

One Norwegian, two British and two German vessels making a dash for the open waters of the Atlantic crunched to a halt as they attempted to navigate eastward through the ice-clogged channel.

Another freighter was rescued from the ice on Thursday by the Canadian icebreaker Ernest Lapointe which is attempting to break open a channel.

The powerful icebreaker D'Iberville was also ordered to proceed to the lake, but it was unable to leave Quebec City because of the heavy vapor rising from the river in the sub-zero temperatures.

'The Kid Is Dead, Let Him Be Buried'

DETROIT (AP) — The divorced parents of a dead child went to court here Thursday to decide whether the eight-year-old boy would be given a Jewish or Christian funeral.

Finally the father—Matthew M. Liflander of Toronto—in tears, agreed to allow the Christian services and burial in a non-sectarian cemetery.

"The kid is dead," he sobbed from the stand in the courtroom of circuit Judge Lila M. Neuenfelt. "She ain't got him. I ain't got him. Let him be buried."

Mrs. Elvera Liflander, 29, of Detroit, was given custody of the boy, Thomas, after her divorce in 1955. Last September the father was given one-year temporary custody at the boy's request.

Last Friday Thomas was struck by a car on a Toronto street. He died two days later.

Hearing that Liflander planned a Jewish funeral, the mother went to Toronto and got a restraining order.

Bizarre Murder-Suicide

Father, Son Die In Gassed House

MILTON-FREEWATER, Ore. (AP)—A 54-year-old ranch foreman who was "tired of working and fighting for a living" killed himself in what appeared to be a bizarre cyanide gas murder-suicide.

His son — apparently destined to become one of the victims—died in a futile attempt to rescue him. Two daughters also tried to rescue him but were restrained by police.

Police Chief Burton Lindsay said he received a telephone call from Alvin C. Gentry on Thursday morning, telling him to come to the Gentry home immediately.

Upon arriving there, police found a crudely-made sign on a stake in front of the house saying "poison gas."

Police said they could smell cyanide and called in to the house to see if anyone was inside.

The three Gentry children came outside.

When police told them that the house was full of gas, all tried to get back to their father. Police managed to restrain the two girls but Ralph, 17, broke away. He collapsed and died at the bottom of the basement stairs.

Police followed the boy in, but were driven back by the fumes.

The two girls were taken to Walla Walla Hospital. Their condition was not believed serious.

The container of gas, the kind used for poisoning rodents, had apparently been purchased in a local store.

Need for Steadiness

OF the three things which have much influence in the economy of any nation—the pulse of world trade, the wisdom of internal policies both governmental and corporate, and the attitude of the public to the conditions of the times—the last named often turns out to be a deciding factor. The year-end statements of the heads of banks and leading financial institutions across Canada this month have been hopeful and encouraging with regard to the upturn in Canada's domestic business in the coming year. They have been more cautious in their appraisals of the forward situation for world trade; questioning as to governmental policies; and frankly concerned with many other problems.

Several bank leaders have noted the paradox of rising personal savings, more life insurance provision and personal debt reduction by the public, while simultaneously another trend has been in the opposite direction—that of regarding inflation as inevitable, with a disposition to gamble in the hope of retaining purchasing power. It is the latter factor, in evidence in several directions, which is to be feared. When all is said, the public sets its own value on the Canadian dollar by care or the reverse in using it. Governmental expenditures, for example, may induce a $300,000,000 expansion in housing construction directly and indirectly but the spending habits of the public can only be recorded in billions.

At the moment the public in Canada seems to be playing it cautiously. Savings and debt reduction are markedly in evidence. Buying at the retail level continues brisk, but the articles chosen are in the main the essentials. Long-term, heavy investment purchases are being selected more carefully, and with evidence that the public is shopping for value. This is all to the good while the self-imposed caution lasts. But how would the public react to another wave of outright inflation overseas, in the United States, or more concretely at home? That is the question, and the answer for Canada rests with its 17,000,000 citizens.

It has been a long time since this nation indulged in deficit financing for its current needs. Even during the Second World War with its outgo of billions one-half of the annual cost was budgetted and raised by current revenues. Now in federal channels the gap has recurred, and we are about to enter a fiscal period in which national revenues may fall short by almost one-fifth of the sums needed to carry on the public services of the nation. That involves heavy borrowing, and borrowing in a fashion which creates money in circulation and becomes the invitation to inflation.

Not least of the imponderables for the future will be the public's reaction. A steadfast, reasoned response to the difficult period ahead could put Canada ahead of the field when the world shakes off its trade lethargy. An inflationary "binge" could set the nation back for a decade, in spite of its tremendous potential and active resources. On every count, this is the time for steadiness.

A First-Class Show

IN a few short weeks the B.C. centennial year will have passed into history. It will in fact be merged in the historical picture the year 1958 was designed to present for the cultural and pleasurable interest of citizens and others alike. On all counts the centenary celebrations have been a huge success; one can scarcely imagine indeed that they could have been more effectively staged than they have been.

The year has been of great value in many ways. It has taught British Columbians the meaning of their heritage and given them rightful pride in provincial history. For many people the pageants and events which took place all over the province, with communities vying with each other in splendid variety, have been an eye-opener. The past has come alive to illuminate and enrich the present. The numerous lasting centennial projects in various areas, also, will remain not only as symbols of British Columbia's hundredth birthday but as permanent amenities of future benefit.

It would be invidious as well as impracticable to single out specific projects or events which have arrested wide public attention. These have been too numerous to mention here, but collectively they have been a source of inspiration and have drawn acclaim from outside admirers. The centenary has overflowed the boundaries not only of British Columbia but also of Canada, and this province has been the focus of much goodwill and genuine interest as a result.

The work involved has been tremendous, and hundreds of volunteer officials have been occupied in the venture over a long period. Too much praise cannot be given for the unselfish devotion of many unsung participants of one kind and another who have bent themselves to making B.C.'s centennial birthday the success it has been. All of them merit the thanks of those who took no active part but were the recipients of the benefits. The highest echelon of the arrangements, the provincial centennial committee under the splendid leadership and direction of Mr. L. J. Wallace, has accomplished a difficult and complex task in magnificent fashion and has the utmost reason to be proud of its work. The B.C. centenary has been a first-class celebration from beginning to end.

Contemptible Slaughter

OF all the mean and despicable acts committed in and around Victoria lately—and there have been many, ranging from theft from poor-boxes to senseless vandalism — the slaughter of a tame deer in its pen in Beacon Hill Park must stand near the top. Much loved by a countless number of children who have visited the park, the five-year-old buck apparently was butchered solely for the meat of its carcass. Because of the friendliness of its nature the deer would have been an easy victim for those who did it to death.

Public indignation against acts of vandalism has seldom been so strongly aroused. Rewards for the arrest of the killers-by-night have been put up by several local organizations and private individuals, and police forces throughout the district have combined in efforts to hunt them down. Any enjoyment at the dinner table anticipated by the butchers of this poor beast is liable to vanish in the knowledge that if they are caught and convicted the punishment which the court may hand down will be small by comparison with the weight of public anger and contempt.

Interpreting the News

U.S. United in Outlook

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SENATOR Hubert H. Humphrey's now-celebrated eight-hour talk with Soviet Premier Khrushchev could have some effect on the East-West manoeuvring over the status of Berlin.

For one thing the long talk between the voluble Soviet leader and the equally-talkative Democrat from Minnesota lessens the likelihood that Khrushchev will miscalculate the political situation in the United States.

It would be understandable if Khrushchev were to misinterpret the sweeping Democratic gains in the November U.S. congressional elections and read into the results indications of diminished congressional support for President Eisenhower in foreign policy.

Nothing could be further from the truth. The Democrats have been among the strongest supporters of the president's foreign policy, primarily because its basic principles—containment of communism and foreign aid—were laid down by previous Democratic administrations.

Khrushchev unquestionably was briefed thoroughly on Humphrey's background before the two met in Moscow. He undoubtedly was aware of Humphrey's record as a leader of the liberal wing of the Democratic party and his position as third-ranking member of the Senate foreign relations committee and head of its disarmament subcommittee.

He knew, too, that Humphrey was one of the first American politicians to advocate a U.S. atomic test ban and had disagreed with Eisenhower on his handling of the Middle East crisis last summer. He may have expected—or at least hoped—that Humphrey would oppose Eisenhower's call for a firm Western stand against Khrushchev's proposal to turn Berlin into a neutral, disarmed city.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

POPULAR taste in music is like affection for the comics, difficult to judge, but there can be no doubt at all that never before did so much of this sounding art encompass society. There is, almost literally, no physical escape from it.

Perhaps it is dubious to say this is a musical age but certainly it is an age of music.

Music one dictionary cites as the science of pleasing, expressive or intelligible combination of tones, and you will notice that pleasing is put first. Sometimes this is cause for amazement for often enough it is anything but pleasure that descends unbidden upon the ear.

Happily the ear is a blessed instrument gifted with a selective alchemy all its own; were this not so I fear we should all be in strait-jackets.

* * *

This humble scribe for instance, having been conditioned by long experience against, say, a roomful of bagpipes, can shut out almost at will what he does not deign to hear. The juke box therefore holds no terrors for him, although to right the balance of this comment he should point out that it is a bagpipe on a hillside and not Guy Lombardo that produces the sweetest music this side of heaven.

Yet by all odds the most startling phenomenon of this era, beating all else to a frazzle, is the immensity of the tonal sound that blankets us. Musical art, I once read, is not solely a library of full scores; it is also something you do.

And all sorts of people "do" music.

Industrialization, I also read recently, has driven folk-song underground but it has also stimulated choral singing, brass bands, created tonic-sol-fa and established competition festivals. On this plane music is given what you might call a sociological value unknown in former days.

The juke-box enters the picture here since its social impact is nothing short of colossal, allied as it is with the record-breaking business of record making.

In truth some specimens are fit tribute to the minds that conceive them and the raucous throats that give them voice. Actually as you know the caterwauling that goes on is appalling, matched only in inanity by the open-mouthed adoration of live audiences at the personal appearance of any of those cry-Willies and moaning-Matildas who monopolize so much record-playing time.

One look at a picture of such a grouping and you long for the simple air of "Home, Sweet Home."—

* * *

It is in the home nevertheless that the social impact of the sounding art is perhaps most to be noted, as undoubtedly it will be by future historians if mass communication has not by then made unthinking robots of them all. One automatically switches on the radio while sitting down even to read a book, not objectively to listen to something but to be wrapped in a background of music real or so-called.

For all the world as though life were unlivable without a tonic of tonal sound.

The saving grace, as I have said, is the ear, which unconsciously builds up resistance to music that is noise, period, and nothing else; and by its own ingenous alchemy transmits to the intelligence only that which it knows will be appreciated.

If it were not for this blessing we should all be beyond hope.

Letter from London

Anglo-French Relations Under Strain

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

TWO paradoxical facts emerge from the French elections. The first is that, prima facie, diplomatic relations across the Channel are going to be more difficult, because the overwhelming success of General de Gaulle in particular and the right-wingers in general will tend to make France more individualistic and less pliable; and the second is that Britain's prime minister has a strong personal attachment for General de Gaulle which was formed during the war and has remained ever since. Allied with it is the fact that Mr. Macmillan speaks the same language—fluently. He is an excellent French scholar.

Diplomatically Mr. Selwyn Lloyd is the problem child. Indeed one cannot help feeling a little sorry for Mr. Lloyd because he suffers in Britain and the United States for being one of the architects of the Suez venture, and in France he suffers for having agreed to call it off. France still feels that she was badly let down by Britain in Egypt. She still believes that a great deal of the trouble in Algeria would have been avoided if the job had been finished in Egypt.

* * *

The simple bitter truth is that France does not trust British foreign policy. She may be prepared to admit that Mr. Macmillan is a pro-French prime minister but they will not believe it of his foreign secretary. If Mr. Macmillan starts taking a personal interest in affairs in France the question will again be asked in Britain why he keeps a dog and barks himself. So far the prime minister has shown remarkable loyalty to Mr. Selwyn Lloyd and kept him in office and defended him to a remarkable extent. Whether he will be able to do so much longer in the face of the strong right wing government in France remains to be seen.

Even before the elections General de Gaulle was exceedingly difficult. There are fears now that he will become impossible.

The general is a fanatical patriot. He has only one objective — the restoration of French influence and power. The trouble is that he is not very fussy how it is achieved and he tends to take the short-term view instead of the long-term. He has been obstinate over the common market proposals, and almost irresponsible about the announcement of the proposed union of French Guinea and Ghana. The French foreign office has made it appear to be a deep-laid British plot against France.

The general was upset by the overwhelming referendum results in Guinea which made that French colony choose impoverished independence to comparatively luxurious membership of French community. It seems that the general almost hoped that poverty and the inability to find adequate native administrators would soon send Guinea crawling back to Paris for recognition and cash. The fact that Ghana offered to help and put up nearly $30,000,000 as evidence of good faith staggered France—as it did Britain.

* * *

France presumes that Britain must have given some undertaking to Ghana which otherwise could not possibly have risked putting up so much money from her own rather inadequate treasury. It is inferred in Paris that this is back-door British imperialism, a new deep-laid plot to steal French colonies. They refuse to believe that Britain is as worried about the business as France. Apart from this unfortunate effect on diplomatic relations with France, it creates a wholly unexpected complication in Commonwealth affairs.

In effect it means that a member of the Commonwealth club presumes to elect a new member to the club without putting his name before the committee. It is just something which has never been considered. It has always been presumed that the Commonwealth is broad enough and flexible enough and be able to absorb new members — even "honorary membership" from existing alien communities—but it has always been presumed that a new member should be properly sponsored and approved before membership.

In fact Ghana is the most worrying member of the Commonwealth. It has shown a most unhealthy swing to totalitarianism and quite alarming irresponsibility. Its presumption in inviting Guinea to join a union within the Commonwealth without consulting any other member of the Commonwealth is unprecedented. When Britain has promoted a "half member" in the form of a colony to dominion status it has always done so in consultation with senior members of the Commonwealth. Ghana acted first and consultations now taking place are in the face of something seemingly accomplished.

* * *

Yet any attempt to make France believe those simple facts is futile. France has never quite understood the "impossible" Commonwealth which in some mysterious way works, still less can she understand Britain's present denials of complicity. The simple fact is that Ghana has tried to make herself "more equal" than the rest of the Commonwealth.

The justice of any French criticism lies in the fact that Commonwealth relations are inadequate. It is not very creditable that such a revolutionary move could be completed with hardly a whisper reaching London before the event. It is the old story: it has never happened before and in the absence of any precedent what could a poor bureaucrat do? Is it suggested that we should have intelligence units in Commonwealth countries? It is not — but it is suggested in Britain that it should be made clearer to nations attaining independence that it involves community responsibilities as well as rights.

The opinion over here is broadly that Ghana, for all it faults since independence, acted in good faith. There is in fact much closer historical association between Guinea and Ghana in pre-colonial days than is generally recognized and that there is nothing fundamentally wrong in the Ghana idea of a West African federation. But there is no doubt that action without prior consultation has put a very large monkey wrench into the Commonwealth works and, as far as Britain is concerned, into Anglo-French accord. It has considerably roughened already troubled waters.

3,000 a Week

A Woman of Letters

(From The Montreal Gazette)

NEXT time you get the urge to write the United Nations, pause long enough to think of the woman who will have no choice but to read your letter. She is Mrs. Josephine Frank, and her job is that of Chief of the Public Inquiries Unit.

Mrs. Frank and her staff receive about 3,000 letter a week.

Some of the letters, being political in character, are sent on to be dealt with under Security Council auspices, while, of the remainder, those which are "thoughtful" and "intelligent" are answered by Mrs. Frank's department. There are, of course, the letter-writers described as "chronic."

There is, e.g., the man from Mexico who averages around 5,000 words weekly. There is someone in Switzerland who always marks his letters "very important." One man's letter was a plea to get out of jail in order to join the Foreign Legion. Quite a number, apparently, are desirous of being "the first off by rocket to the moon." Still others send "requests for money, or personal advice, or birthday greetings to the U.N."

Nevertheless, among the multitude of letters received, a remarkably large proportion are of the sound, helpful type. The subject of vastly greatest concern—to correspondents in every land—is peace. Many people send their prayers, and messages of encouragement.

Considering her day-in-day-out routine, it is scarcely surprising that letter-reading is not—among Mrs. Frank's favorite off-duty activities. Indeed, she herself says that when she gets home to her apartment on the East Side, she "can hardly stand receiving mail." After all, it could be from the man in Mexico.

The Packsack

of GREGORY CLARK

IN the small tobacco shop where I buy most of my smoke, I was surprised to see a lively jet of steam rising from behind the counter.

"Air conditioning?" I asked the young man who is sole proprietor and entire staff of the shop.

"Coffee break," said he.

I peered over, and sure enough, there was an electric kettle at full steam, and beside it, on the shelf, a bottle of instant coffee, a mug and a sugar bowl.

"Everybody else," explained the young man, "has a coffee break in the morning and afternoon. So why not I?"

It being a one-man business, he can't run out to a neighboring cafe for his fifteen-minute coffee break.

"The purpose of the coffee break," I told him, "as I understand it, is to break the monotony of the 3½-hour morning and the 3½-hour afternoon in business and industry. Not merely to take nourishment, or a pickup."

"Three-and-a-half-hour?" said he, astonished.

"Sure. With lunch-hour out, that's about all most of our contemporaries work."

"Gee," he said. "I open at eight, and close at eight."

"Have you another mug?" I asked.

So, by golly, I had a coffee break with this tough young champion of private enterprise.

With the Classics

The clouds that gather round the setting sun
Do take a sober coloring from an eye
That hath kept watch o'er man's mortality;
Another race hath been, and other palms are won.
Thanks to the human heart by which we live,
Thanks to its tenderness, its joys, and fears,
To me the meanest flower that blows can give
Thoughts that do often lie too deep for tears.

Letters to the Editor

Room for Both

Mr. Patterson's letter published last Tuesday made interesting reading. He has a fund of knowledge concerning the northern part of our province: knowledge obtained by personal travel on foot, on horse and by canoe, through many years. Far be it from me to challenge his knowledge of our province, but it does occur to me that his letter results from an emotional desire to protect the land of the part of the world he writes of from the encroachment of industrialism, rather than presenting factual reasons for not supporting the exploitation and protection of the area which is so much in the news.

He refers to a survey published by the government in 1912 which purports to establish that the trench area was valuable farming land. Quoting this survey is misleading because it must have been carried out laboriously and, of necessity, in limited fashion. Certainly I would prefer to accept a present-day aerial photographic survey. Much has been developed in the art of surveying since 1912.

Mr. Patterson appears to desire to have the area developed (if at all) as a farming area, but it is well to consider that in this day and age even farmers must have roads, railways and electric power. These can only be obtained by initial development of the essential services which the present proposals for the trench area are attempting to bring about.

I would ask Mr. Patterson to support the scheme for development, but also to support the course of a simultaneous development of farming facilities. Our present government, or notably its premier, shows a lamentable lack of interest in agriculture. We should see to it that agriculture, where possible, forms a part of the trench area development.

E. VICKERMAN,
R.R. 2, Sidney, B.C.

'No Information'

From the historical point of view, I consider the premeditated treatment rendered by the college students was a very proper one against a certain conjuror. The young men and women expressed their abhorrence in the frequent use of the term "no information" by a man in an important position who thinks he is in a position to please himself whether he reply or not to questions put by the Legislative Assembly.

A man holding an official position is not in a position to refuse. When he uses the expression "no information" or refuses to answer, he shows his reply would be too feeble to express. If he used the kind of courage he should have, he would face the situations and give clear and truthful answers.

The person in question does not realize that the public is seeing through his carefully planned conjuring tricks as well as those of his immediate partners.

FREDERICK V. LONGSTAFF,

Apathy Can Destroy

In last Sunday's Islander, there is an account of the building of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway. Citizens of British Columbia should study this account of the giving away of one-third of Vancouver Island, including all the mineral rights, to be free of taxes for all time, for 82 miles of railway.

Are the people of British Columbia prepared to stand for a duplication of this kind of insanity in the Wenner-Gren deal?

Mr. R. M. Patterson, who knows the country, has explored it and written a most excellent book on it, has written two letters to the Colonist on the subject. Mr. Lee Briggs, in his address to the people last week, advised his audience to do everything in their power to stop the deal.

The apathy of a people can destroy a country.

Cult Members 'Slaves Held in Bondage'

Dead Men Tell Reasons for Killing

RALPH J. MULLER
". . . master kept money"

PETER KAMENOFF
. . . sought freedom

CHATSWORTH, Calif. (UPI) — Investigation of the bombing which took 10 lives in a religious cult's monastery was "pretty well wrapped up" yesterday with positive identification of the two former members who hatched the murder-suicide plot, authorities reported.

Main target of the plot was the sect's leader, self-styled "Messiah" Krishna Venta, 47, whose real name was Francis Pencovic. The former San Francisco man had a long record of arrests ranging from larceny to vagrancy before establishing the Fountain of the World religious colony some years ago, police and sheriff's deputies said.

The two bombers, both of whom were killed along with Venta and seven other persons, including two children, were positively identified as Ralph Muller, 33, and Peter Dumas Kamenof, 42, both of Joshua Tree, Calif.

Two hour-long tape recordings left by the two revealed they were dissatisfied with Venta, questioned his leadership and were determined to "bring the master (Venta) to justice."

"Dear God, give us this night freedom or death," said Muller. "He is not what he claims to be," the tape continued. "All members of the cult are slaves of the master. All the money had to go to the master. . . . He held us all in bondage."

Chatterton Says:

Saanich Put On the Spot

* * *

Vote Split

harmoniously in future if we let each council run its own affairs."

Foremost pro-amalgamation councillor in Saanich, Charles Nelles, said he congratulated "the old guard personally on their great victory. To the rest of us I offer my sincere hope that we can afford this autonomy."

Other Saanich comment:

UNFORTUNATE

Coun. Stanley Murphy: "I think it is an unfortunate decision, but the clear instruction to us is to pursue intelligent, farsighted Saanich policy."

Coun. Ainslie Worthington: "I am very happy. The vote on amalgamation pleases me as we can get down to work and forget about that problem. It leaves us some time to concentrate on planning for the municipality."

Coun. Harold Todd: "I am tickled that amalgamation has been decisively defeated."

Other city comment:

Ald. Arthur Dowell: "I regret to see Saanich take the stand it has and I am confident in my own mind they will live to regret the day when they didn't go along with the Victoria people. I'm sure the longer amalgamation goes the more difficult it will be, and the problems of Saanich more difficult to solve."

MANLY THING TO DO

Ald. Elmer McEwen: "For the reeve of Saanich to have taken a positive position one way or the other would have been a more manly thing to do."

Ald. Austin Curtis: "We made our gesture to the people of Saanich, and went along when they asked for a study of amalgamation. They don't seem to want it, and we can get along all right the way we are. I think really amalgamation will have to come, but the people there don't seem ready for it."

'Must Avoid More Debt'

Reeve George Chatterton of Saanich said last night the decisive vote against union with Victoria "places a very heavy responsibility to solve the very real problems of Saanich."

Unless the real problems of Saanich were solved, he said, "the results could be calamitous."

'BOLD STEPS'

"The council must take bold steps to consider the interests of the whole municipality in the long term over and against what might appear to be the interests of certain individuals, or the minority.

"We must avoid creating further debts and if the people continue to demand better services, we will have to increase the tax rates considerably."

LIMITED CREDIT

"The real problems are the continual demands for capital expenditure with the somewhat limited credit resources of Saanich.

"To me the main issue of Saanich is control of development. We want people to have an area where they can be assured that high taxes will not be forced upon them, and people who want to enjoy the country will be assured that the rural atmosphere will be preserved for them for some years.

'PAY AS WE GO'

"I want to emphasize that our municipality must avoid incurring debt at any cost, even at the expense of raising taxes to pay for services as we go."

A special meeting of the council's public works committee Monday night will consider the plan to force development in the Gordon Head-Cadboro Bay area.

Elected to Sidney Council

Elected to Sidney village council seats yesterday were Howard Larocque, left, and T. A. Aiers, in one of the quietest elections in years.

Newcomer Led Polls

Novice, Veteran Sidney's Choice

A newcomer to political service and a veteran member of the village council were elected to fill two vacant seats in Sidney yesterday.

The newcomer is Lt.-Col. Howard Larocque, recently retired after 27 years with the Canadian army and a resident of Sidney for the past year. He led the polls with 243 votes.

Re-elected with 232 votes was T. A. Aiers, chairman of the village finance committee for the past two years.

Both were backed by the Sidney Ratepayers' Association.

Independent candidate, Mrs. Eileen Casson, housewife and car rental service manager, with 122 votes failed in her bid for a council seat.

District Results

SIDNEY

Village commissioners (two elected): J. H. Larocque, 243; (x) T. A. Aiers, 232 (elected); Mrs. Eileen Casson, 122.

CENTRAL SAANICH

Councillors (three to be elected): Frank Grimshaw, 344; R. Gordon Lee, 273 elected; (recount today for third seat between Mrs. G. E. Ronson, 202; G. W. Mollard, 201; Charles Harris, 199); Edward Glover, 165.

Recount Necessary In Third-Seat Fight

A recount was called for today to decide on a member to fill the third vacant seat on the Central Saanich municipal council when a margin of only three votes separated third, fourth and fifth candidates yesterday.

Elected to two of the seats were top choices, Frank Grimshaw, 344 votes, and R. Gordon Lee, 273.

Still in the running for the third vacancy are Mrs. G. E. Ronson, 202; G. W. Mollard, 201, and Charles Harris, 199.

Voters in the municipality turned thumbs down on hunters' hopes when 308 said they were against continuation of hunting in the area to 155 in favor of it.

Council earlier promised the Victoria Fish and Game Association a hearing before acting on the voters' verdict.

Only 35 per cent of voters turned out with 478 out of a possible 1,366 going to the polls.

TOUGH WOOD

The cypress timber of the Pacific Coast is heavier than cedar and more resistant to damp.

Island Communities Say No To Fluoridation of Water

Three communities voted emphatically against fluoridation of water supplies as Vancouver Island centres went to the polls yesterday.

Roads and sewer bylaws calling for money spending also got the heave-ho from the voters. A bylaw for extension of a fire protection district got by, but a move to extend a water district was left in doubt with a recount scheduled today.

VOTING LIGHT

Voting on bylaws, local government and school trustees in a score of centres was comparatively light, with the Island average running around 48 per cent.

It varied from a mild 41 per cent in Courtenay, where three commissioners were elected, to 58 per cent in far-west Tofino, and 51 in Qualicum Beach, one of the centres where fluoridation was turned down.

NANAIMO DOWN

Nanaimo had a 47 per cent vote, a long trudge down from last year's 67 per cent.

The fluoridation supporters took a thumping at Qualicum, where the vote was 168 against to 110 in favor; a whipping at Parksville, where the verdict was 234 against to 54 ayes, and a three-to-one beating in Port Alberni, where the vote was 1,314 against to 539 in support.

SEWERS REJECTED

At Comox the voters turned out to roundly defeat a $324,000 sewer bylaw and at Campbell River a $200,000 road improvement referendum was knocked out by the voters.

Election for three aldermen in Nanaimo was being hailed as a victory for labor. Alderman George Brice, who topped the polls for the second successive time, is regarded as having strong labor support, and school teacher John Parker, third on the list, was officially recognized by the Nanaimo and District Labor Council.

VETERAN LOSES

An upset marked the voting in Courtenay when Thomas Simms, member of the council for 16 years, was defeated in a bid for re-election, trailing the field with 308 votes.

North Cowichan voters yesterday approved extension of the Crofton fire protection area by a total vote of 88 in favor to 50 against.

Results of a referendum on extension of the Maple Bay Water Works will not be known until sometime today.

Here are complete Island results:

Fluoridation Rejected

Royal City Picks Woman as Mayor

VANCOUVER (CP)—Municipal voters in British Columbia went to the polls Thursday, and results saw the third woman mayor in B.C. history elected and fluoridation rejected in most places.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wood, 51-year-old mother of two married children, ousted Fred Jackson as mayor of New Westminster after Mr. Jackson held the post for eight years.

DAY LATER

His defeat in B.C.'s second-largest city followed by one day the defeat in Vancouver elections of Fred Hume as mayor. Thomas Alsbury won out in voting here.

In winning election by a majority of close to 1,000 votes, Mrs. Wood becomes the second woman mayor in the province. The other woman holding such a post is Mayor Jane Gray, who was elected in Prince George last year.

FIRST IN FORTIES

B.C.'s first woman mayor was Mrs. Norah Arnold of Prince Rupert during the 1940s.

Mrs. Wood's election was the highlight of party returns from municipal elections in 32 cities, three towns, 57 villages and 30 districts throughout the province. Besides choosing candidates for civic office, the voters also decided on municipal projects—mostly school financing — amounting to more than $20,000,000.

FLUORIDATION COUNT

The city of Vancouver appeared to be turning down fluoridation of the city's water supply. The Vancouver fluoridation vote was taken Wednesday but not counted until Thursday night because of similar votes in other areas.

But while mainland voters were apparently against fluoridation in most areas, for the most part they appeared in favor of heavy expenditures proposed for such projects as new schools, playgrounds and arenas.

'Never Laid Hands on Him'

Fired Worker Denies Assaulting Foreman

Albert N. Davidson, electrician fired from Western Industries Ltd. sawmill at Honeymoon Bay for alleged "Insolence, insubordination and assault," denied yesterday he assaulted his foreman.

"I never laid hands on him," the discharged electrician said. "And I never made a threatening gesture."

An arbitration board at Duncan upheld his dismissal, but recommended he be given his job back without loss of seniority.

Spokesmen for his union said the membership was concerned about the case and would press for return of Davidson to the job.

The dismissed electrician, who said he was concerned about allegations he "hit" the foreman over a lunch-hour dispute, said the "assault was supposed to have been in the time office — and it just couldn't have happened."

At the arbitration board hearing, Davidson said, the foreman testified: "I think and believe Mr. Davidson pushed me."

The electrician said he had been "most emphatic" in telling the foreman what he thought of him and "of his reprimanding me during my lunch period."

Faulty Valve Killed Two

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP)—A five-man inquest jury Thursday placed the responsibility for a faulty valve in the Palermo natural gas pipeline, which caused deaths of a mother and son, on both the United Suburban Gas Company Limited and the Gas Machinery Company Canada Limited, the installing contractor.

The jury, after deliberating five hours, found that the deaths of Patricia Skinner and her two-month-old son on Nov. 5 were caused by fire following an explosion of gas in the Skinner residence.

Janitor Tells Chicago Probe:

Firemen Called 20 Minutes Late

CHICAGO (UPI) — The janitor of Our Lady of the Angels School testified yesterday that a fire which killed 92 children and nuns was blazing 17 to 22 minutes before the fire department got its first official alarm.

Janitor James Raymond's testimony on the second day of an inquest into the Dec. 1 disaster increased the mystery surrounding Chicago's worst fire tragedy in 55 years.

Raymond, 44, a tense, lean father of seven children, insisted he saw wisps of smoke and a red glowing window in the basement of the school at "between 2.20 and 2.25" on the afternoon of Dec. 1.

He said he dashed into the neighboring rectory, shouted to the housekeeper "Call the fire department quick," and then ran into the school.

Sgt. Drew Brown of the police arson squad, hammering away at the janitor's story, asked "Are you sure the call was made by the housekeeper?"

"I'm not sure," Raymond replied.

Fire department officials have insisted the first alarm on the fire was not received until 2.42—17 to 22 minutes after the time Raymond said he saw the glowing window.

Fire trucks were at the scene within two minutes after the alarm came in. But by that time children were leaping in flames from second-floor windows or dying in the smoke and inferno heat which swirled into the classrooms.

Raymond, who had five of his children in the school, fought to save the students until he was knocked out from behind. It was believed a fireman hit the janitor to prevent him from running back into the school.

Quake Rocks Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— An earthquake jolted San Francisco and a radius of up to 50 miles at 1.52 a.m. Thursday but damage appeared to be minor. It broke dishes and cracked a wall or two — but no injuries were reported.

LONG STRETCH

Canada has seven time zones, the Yukon being 5½ hours slower than Newfoundland standard time.

Commonwealth Curbs Cracking

Canadian Export Jump Seen

OTTAWA (CP)—The tough core of Commonwealth import curbs against Canadian goods is beginning to crack and officials estimate a big chunk of these post-war restrictions might be swept away in 1959.

After progressively stripping most of her less vital curbs, Britain took what Canadian experts considered was a major step last September when she eliminated restrictions on salmon, newsprint and machinery from the dollar area.

Australia, soon after the Montreal Commonwealth economic conference announced removal of curbs on chemicals from Canada and the U.S., and New Zealand disclosed her restrictions would be reduced generally in 1959.

Now Malaya has come through with a decision that starting with the new year, 23 categories of goods—from synthetic clothing to trucks and buses—would be freed from controls on imports from dollar-area countries.

Bus Passes For Aged Wins Support

Support is mounting for a Silver Threads appeal to the B.C. Electric for bus passes for senior citizens, Glen Hamilton, executive director, said here yesterday.

"Several organizations and individuals have contacted us to say they're on our side," Mr. Hamilton said. "We want the people's expression of opinion before we go to the B.C. Electric."

He said Silver Threads is appealing to the company on behalf of the pensioners, who "cannot cope with the three-cent bus fare increase on their fixed incomes."

Silver Threads is also sending out 100 letters to clubs and organizations for further support.

Wall Street Fights Shy Of New Top

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks ran up sharply in the first hour of trading and then turned down with reductions in prices noted steadily throughout the day. At the highs the market was near the all-time record.

Lowest prices were set in the last few minutes of trading when profit-taking increased substantially.

Tickers ran late as the close approached on a declining market. Earlier in the day they fell behind on a rise.

Chrysler declined more than a point and took other motors down with it. Rails retreated to a small loss on lower car loadings report.

Metals and selected chemicals ruled strong.

Metals Strengthen

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market scored its second straight advance despite 45 issues trading ex-dividend. Trading, however, was at its slowest pace in more than two months.

Among industrials, steels, banks and papers were strong while pipelines, refining oils and motors were mixed. Gains of 1⅛ went to Bank of Commerce at 57, and Moore Corp. at 90.

Ford A led losers, off 1⅝ at 109. Canadian Breweries dropped another point at 33. Among the most active industrials Aluminium set the pace at 1¼ at 31½.

Hollinger added ⅝ at 29¾ to lead golds while Calgary and Edmonton was up ⅛ at 25⅝ in western oils.

A firming in copper prices led to an advance in International Nickel up 1⅛ to 85⅝. Sleep Rock gained ⅛ at 11¾.

Bank Stocks Boosted

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were generally higher in the industrial section.

The banks were strong with Royal up 2 at 78, a new high. Montreal gained ⅝ at 54½ and Commerce advanced 1¼ at 57.

Up a point in the base metals were Aluminium at 31 and Asbestos at 34. Nickel gained ⅞ at 85½.

Refining oils and pipelines were mixed with Imperial Oil up ⅝ at 42¼ and Trans-Canada Pipeline off ¼ at 27½. Up ⅛ in the papers were Brown at 41, a new high. Anglo Newfoundland at 6⅝ and Consolidated at 42.

Up ¼ in the utilities was B.C. Power at 36⅝.

Tidal at New High

VANCOUVER — Prices were steady in moderate trading. Woodwards rose 25 cents to $18¾ while Capital Estates made a new high at $9.75.

Trans Mountain on stepped-up oil requirements by Pacific Coast refineries rose to $11⅛.

Bralorne was strong at 6.80 among mines, while Tidal made a high of 1.42 among oils.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP) — Active trade in flax occurred with fairly liberal offerings from various sources including commission houses.

Prices showed an easier tone with some buying declines by export houses. Reports indicated sale of small quantities of flax to the United Kingdom.

Oats and barley trade was quiet and mostly consisted of domestic shipping orders. Prices moved narrowly.

Rye showed hesitation, reflecting an easier tone in United States markets. Trade was mostly of a commission house nature.

Send Back 27,000 Reds Demand of UN

PANMUNJOM (UPI) — A North Korean general startled United Nations Command officers Thursday by demanding that the United Nations return more than 27,000 Communist "prisoners" who, he said, were "illegally abducted" during the Korean war.

Maj.-Gen. Kang Sang Ko, chief Red delegate at the 90th meeting of the military armistice commission at Panmunjom, made the demand to counter a UN demand for the immediate release of 46 South Korean fishermen, seized by the Reds since November.

UN officers, in the first, unofficial reaction to Kang's demand, dismissed it as a piece of "crass propaganda."

GASSER FOUND IN B.C.

What is described as a "modest" gas discovery has been reported in northeastern B.C. by Sinclair Oil of Canada Ltd. It has struck the basal cretaceous at 4,125 feet for a maximum flow of 756,000 cubic feet a day from its Sinclair-Canadian Atlantic-Cajvan XB No. 1 well.

The well is in wildcat territory about 98 miles northwest of Fort St. John. The nearest field — Highway — is about 25 miles away.

Chinatown Settled Own Case

VANCOUVER (CP) — A charge of wounding against Leo Lin, 63, was dismissed in police court here Thursday after Magistrate Oscar Orr said it appeared the case had already been settled.

Woody Hoy, 23, testified he could not identify the man who allegedly attacked him, nor was the knife produced as evidence. No witnesses recalled details of the fight.

Magistrate Orr said there was no point in going further with the case and added that apparently it has been settled "by a court down in Chinatown."

A hand axe found in South Africa's Umgeni Valley in 1958 is estimated to be 60,000 years old.

Motor Branch Chief Advises:

Don't Accident-Shop

Provincial motor vehicles branch superintendent George Lindsay last night advised Christmas shoppers, motorists and pedestrians to "make sure they don't unwittingly shop for an accident."

"Death takes no holiday," he said, and warned that provincial and local law enforcement officers will not let the holiday spirit deter them from strict enforcement of the laws against drunken driving.

He pointed out that last December 38 persons were killed in traffic accidents in British Columbia.

"In addition to shopping hazards, this is the greatest party-giving time of the year," he said.

"A host, whether it be a business firm, civic group or family, should make it clear to guests that a holiday party can be enjoyed without overindulgence in intoxicants.

"Many families are driving to other communities than their own to find different gifts for Christmas," he said. "Downtown business areas and outlying shopping centres are crowded day and night, especially at night when most workers are through for the day and desire to take advantage of evening shopping opportunities.

"The pressure is expected to continue right up to the day before Christmas," Mr. Lindsay warned.

"It's easier to say 'Take it easy' than it is to practise it," he admitted. "We must curb the desire to rush and hurry. At the wheel or on foot take time to move safely."

Strikers' Wives Hold Their Fire

SUDBURY (CP)—Union officials have called off a demonstration scheduled for today by the wives of some 2,900 strikers at the International Nickel Company of Canada, "in the interests of co-operation with the Ontario government in its efforts to bring about further meetings."

'Not Too Bad'

LEATHERHEAD, England (Reuters)—A can of corned beef 135 years old was opened by scientists on Thursday and pronounced "not too bad."

The can, once abandoned for four years in the Arctic wastes, was opened at the laboratories of the British Food Manufacturing Industries Research Association.

Research director Dr. F. H. Banfield said the meat was "not too bad considering, though its edibility depends on a number of things, one of which is hunger."

Also opened were a 109-year-old tin of roast mutton, a 1900 Boer War plum pudding and a tin of chocolate canned in 1915 for the Gallipoli campaign of the First World War.

Both pudding and chocolate were described as "mouth-watering."

Canadian, Go Home Says U.S. Judge

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (UPI) — A judge defended American justice yesterday before a Canadian angered over a jury decision.

William J. Coulbeck, 22, Sarnia, Ont., shouted at Circuit Judge Howard R. Carroll when the jury panel returned an innocent verdict in a traffic case.

Coulbeck was involved in a car accident last July in which his foster mother was killed. The jury freed the driver of the car that rammed Coulbeck's car.

The irked Canadian said that "if this is what you call American justice I don't want any part of it."

Carroll told Coulbeck that "I presume all in this courtroom love this country and are proud of it. We can get along without anyone like you coming in and interrupting a court proceeding."

Carroll also told Coulbeck that "Americans admire and deeply respect our Canadian neighbors, but those of the likes of you can stay on the other side of the border."

VIEWS of SPORT

By Red Smith

A gentleman in Summit, N.J., name of Robert L. Talbot, sends along a copy of a suggestion which he, writing as spokesman of a group of fans, has submitted to Bert Bell, Commissioner of the National Football League. From here it looks like a sound proposal calculated to reinforce and in- games and curdle the peptic juices of the coaches, each of these being a consummation devoutly to be wish'd.

While there appears to be little immediate danger of Bertram de Benneville Bell, George Halas, Tim Mara and other priests of the professional lamasery being hunted down and burned at the stake as dangerous radicals, they are a pretty heretical crew compared with the college football mob, a lot of image-breakers and idol-smashers. Consequently it is no surprise to learn that Mr. Talbot has "received a very courteous reply from Commissioner Bell stating that the suggested rule change has been discussed quite a few times and that he would bring it up again this year at the annual meeting."

Mr. Talbot and his friends have a plan that they feel would help sustain interest throughout a game, even in the late stages when one team has drawn ahead by a margin which, under today's rules, the other team could scarcely hope to close. They feel the present rules contribute to the hopelessness of pursuit by requiring the team that has just scored to kick off to the team scored against.

Even if a team that is trailing by 30 to 13 improves its score by seven points, it must yield possession immediately (or take the long chance of recovering a short kick-off). The receiving team has the agreeable option of trying to pile up the score or just protect its ten-point margin by running out the clock. In either case, spectator interest flags unless there is a fumble or interception.

Seven Points for Possession

Mr. Talbot suggests: "Whenever a team is behind by more than seven points it should be entitled to receive the kick-off regardless of which team has scored. In the above example, the team that has been behind, 30 to 13, makes the score 30 to 20. This team still trails by more than seven points and so is entitled to receive the next kick-off.

"Another touchdown would make the score 30 to 27. With only a three-point difference, present rules would apply and the team scored against could elect to receive. We believe this would sustain interest at a higher pitch right up to the end."

As Bert Bell's reply indicates, this idea is not brand-new. It is, as a matter of fact, only a logical extension of the rule which gives the team scored against the privilege of receiving the next kick-off. That was meant to equalize opportunity, offering the team that has just been hurt a chance to strike back. Trouble is, one chance to strike back isn't much help when you need two or three chances.

Worth a Trial

It should be noted that this is no reckless, half-baked device to louse up established practice and open the gate for wild scoring. The privilege of receiving the kick-off is no guarantee that a score will result, and there is a safety factor in the provision requiring an eight-point difference in scores (or a nine-point difference in college, probably) before the old order changeth.

Chances are coaches would oppose such a change. They oppose most changes. They would holler that the lawmakers were making football a game of put-and-take and were penalizing the better team.

Still, if it made for livelier entertainment, which it might do, the net result would be on the profit side. "Profit," of course, is a word employed only in the hearing of professionals. The colleges still refuse to admit that they're in the entertainment business, though it has been a long time since they successfully pretended that football had any connection with education.

The feeling here is that Mr. Talbot's proposal is worth a trial. Chances are it would have little effect on the outcome of games. Certainly, it would never enable a poor team to beat a good team. Yet if it helped at all to narrow the point spread between poorly matched teams, if it is kept alive the possibility of a laggard catching up, it would serve its purpose.

Slaves of Time

As long as we're playing fast and loose with the rules, now is as good a time as any to plump for another idea that has been brought up from time to time over the years—the idea of disqualifying the clock as football's court of last appeal.

There is no good reason why a football game should end after sixty minutes of timed action and inaction. A championship fight goes fifteen rounds. A baseball game goes nine innings. A golf match is eighteen or thirty-six holes. Some games like soccer or hockey or basketball or polo must be clocked because there is no other way of measuring them.

This isn't so of football. On five minutes' notice, statisticians could come up with figures showing how many plays a pair of live teams ought to run in any game or in any quarter of a game. There is no reason at all why a game couldn't be measured by so many plays a quarter, rather than so many minutes.

There would then be no more of this nonsense about stopping the clock or running out the clock. Then the dial over the scoreboard would show not how much time remained but how many plays remained. Strategy wouldn't change much, but a lot of sharp practice would be eliminated.

Leafs Hope Gamble Pays Off

Toronto Maple Leafs' general-manager George "Punch" Imlach took a $15,000 gamble when he signed ex-Montreal Canadiens' junior star Gerry Wilson (left) and sent him to Winnipeg Warriors of the Western Hockey League. Angry Red Wing Coach Rebukes Rocket Richard

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Sid Abel, coach of Detroit Red Wings, said Thursday Montreal Canadiens' Maurice (The Rocket) Richard is "an opportunist who never was the all-around equal of Gordie Howe."

SID ABEL
. . . raps Richard

MAURICE RICHARD
. . . slighted Howe

"Howe is the best player in hockey, great on defence and scores goals when we need them the most," added Abel, a former star skater for Detroit. Abel played on the same line with Howe for several seasons.

The Wings' coach made his comments in rebuttal to Richard's charges that Howe lacks enthusiasm, should hustle more and is used excessively as a penalty-killer.

"Richard has no reason to speak," snapped Abel. "He never was good enough to be used for killing penalties."

"Howe makes everything look easy. But he knows instinctively what to do and does it without too much effort. We'd be in a heck of a fix without him."

Richard, 37, is the National Hockey League's all-time leading scorer with 520 regular season goals. Howe, 30, is a runner-up with 399. The Rocket is in his 17th season in the big league and Howe is in his 13th.

"I don't want to take anything away from Richard," Abel added. "He's amazing and I'd take him on my club anytime."

"He's colorful, certainly more so than Howe. But the Canadiens' offensive is geared for Richard to put the puck in the net. Gordie works hard for a lot of his goals."

FOUR-GAME STREAK

The Red Wings, who defeated New York Rangers 2-1 in Madison Square Garden Wednesday night, are unbeaten in their last four games. They have moved within two points of the leading Canadiens, who are overwhelming pre-season choices to finish in first place.

"I'm not conceding Montreal anything," said Abel. "They haven't looked so hot so far."

"A lot of people are saying that it'll be a battle between the other five clubs for second place. But why concede the Canadiens anything? They can only put six players on the ice at one time the same as we.

"We've been very fortunate so far. Terry Sawchuk has been great in the goal. Along with Howe, he's been the backbone of our club. Red Kelly has come back strong after a couple of bad seasons.

"Actually we're rebuilding now and some of our younger players like Charlie Burns and Len Lunde are coming along nicely."

The Red Wings' string of regular season championships snapped at seven by Montreal in the 1955-56 season. Detroit bounced back to take the title the following year. But the Canadiens won it handily last season.

Touring Cage Clowns Keep Fans in Uproar

By JIM TAYLOR

Harlem Clowns leave Victoria today, bound for Port Alberni and another leg of their annual pilgrimage around the country's basketball courts.

Clowns, minus manager Al "Runt" Pullins and star centre Bob Woods, showed a standing-room crowd at Victoria High School gym a thoroughly enjoyable mixture of basketball and comedy last night, one of 176 such demonstrations they will stage this season.

For the Clowns, basketball is sometimes a tiring, albeit rewarding profession. From October to April they are on the road in station wagons, bound for almost every town in western Canada and the United States large enough to have a basketball court.

And how do they feel about this almost never-ending fare of travel, basketball and more travel? Emory Luck, veteran player and road manager, explained that prior to last night's game.

"Basketball for us is just like any other job to anybody else. We get tired of it once in a while. Sometimes it's even boring."

"But," he added with a grin, "the pay is good, and the work ain't hard, so we've got no room to complain."

Luck's comment on the work not being hard brought a little snort from somewhere in the dressing room, looking strangely empty with just five players in it.

Woods, the 6'3" comedian who is the key man in the Clowns' routines, had to leave the club due to the death of his father. His replacement didn't arrive in time, and it left the Clowns with five men for last night's show.

"In the old days," Luck explained, "Al (Pullins) would suit up when we were short. But Al just got out of hospital in Los Angeles, and it looks like he's finally through playing."

The Clowns have been improving with each season, but the loss of Pullins leaves a hole that defies filling. "The Runt," one of the stars of the original Harlem Globetrotters, organized his own team in 1939. Since then, under various names, the team has grown in popularity and always managed to obey Pullins' standing order: "Send 'em home laughing!"

They did just that last night to a crowd of about 750. Sharing the chore, and each contributing a vital part, were Lucky (5'11"), Eddie Hurt (6'2"), Joe Banks (6'4"), Tom Young (6'7") and Eural McKelvy (6'7").

Their opposition was the Half Way House senior "B" club and the score, if it matters, was 57-51 for the Clowns. The touring club won as it pleased, and left the impression of being deadly opposition if its players ever settled down to straight serious basketball.

Luck stole most of the spotlight with his constant chatter and ball-handling. McKelvy, Banks and Young used their height to make scoring look ridiculously easy. But it was Hurt, a rookie with the club, that got most of the points.

Fresh out of high school, the youngster the Clowns are calling their rookie find of all time scored 26 points, driving in from impossible angles after leaving his check staring at empty air.

From the standpoint of good entertainment, the show was a success. From the standpoint of the Victoria Basketball Commission, it was a round won in a battle for survival.

"This is what we needed," reported commissioner Ivan Temple. "It was a success financially, which means we can carry on. That's what we were gambling on."

Stamps on Move In Prairie Loop

SASKATOON — Calgary Stampeders, fastest-moving club in the Eastern Division of the Western Hockey League, pushed within three points of the leading Edmonton Flyers last night by knocking off Saskatoon Quakers, 6-3.

It was the fourth straight win for the Stamps, who have now won seven and tied one of their last 10 games and have the best percentage of any club in the WHL. They have four games in hand on the Flyers.

Sid Finney and Ed Dorohoy, Calgary's one-two centre-ice punch, each scored twice to set the pace offensively while Calgary's rookie-studded defence, led by goalkeeper Roy Edwards, kept the eager Quakers from pulling even after Chuck Blair and Dorohoy had given Stamps a 2-0 lead.

Heisman Winner

Dawkins Led Army Forces

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — A hockey player bucking for second lieutenant who didn't win his gridiron letter as a sophomore was installed officially today as the year's outstanding football player.

He is, of course, Cadet Pete Dawkins of West Point. His status precludes his acceptance of the numerous pro football "feelers" he has received.

But he holds the Heisman Memorial Trophy as the captain and sparkplug of Army's undefeated football forces.

That is not to say that Dawkins, a rangy blond who packs 197 pounds on a six foot, two inch frame, may not eventually turn to pro football or some other form of athletic endeavor.

"I have a three-year commitment with the army," says the embryo infantryman. "A yes or no decision would not be very realistic until I see what army life is like."

Army rose to the heights this fall by employing a brand new offence designed by coach Red Blaik and which became known as the "Lonesome end" offence. Dawkins revealed that at first, the cadet squad was "quite dubious" about it, Blaik was enthusiastic.

"It was a case," said Dawkins, his blue eyes sparkling, "of poppa knows best."

Pete, who currently is performing as a defenceman on the West Point hockey team, chuckles too over the fact that as a sophomore at West Point he didn't win his football letter.

"It wasn't because I was injured, either," he said, "outside of my feelings being hurt."

There's no reason for such a reaction now, however. For as a Heisman Winner, Dawkins moves into the class of army gridiron immortals, which includes such greats as Chris Cagle, Monk Meyer, Ed Garbisch, Doc Blanchard and Glen Davis.

The presentation drew applause in the form of a telegram from another former army football player, Dwight D. Eisenhower. The president said he was "joining with other former cadets" in applauding Dawkins' selection and signed it merely as "Dwight D. Eisenhower, class of 1915."

Dawkins accepted it all modestly. But then, he is used to acclaim. At West Point he is the only cadet ever to be brigade commander, president of his class, captain of the football team and a star man, meaning he is in the upper five per cent of his class academically.

His needling classmates call him "St. Peter" and they josh that he could feed the brigade out of one can of sardines or beat the bus back to the stadium simply by taking a short cut in which he walked across the water of Lusk reservoir.

Pete takes it all in stride. Looking back on his fumble of the opening kickoff in the Navy game, which set up a Navy touchdown, he observes wryly:

"I was looking forward to an early army assignment in Siberia."

Pete and Army pulled it out, 22 to 6. So the cadets are back to their original thinking. Meaning that Dawkins probably will be graduated a five-star general—at least.

Mullins Blasts BEG Committee

TORONTO (CP) — Runner Joe Mullins says he figures he's the unidentified athlete accused of misconduct at the British Empire Games at Cardiff last summer.

Bob Osborne of Vancouver, general manager of Canada's BEG team, told an AAU meeting in Vancouver last week an Eastern Canada track man should be excluded from Canadian international track teams "for a few years" because of unbecoming conduct at Cardiff.

Mullins says in a letter to the Globe and Mail today:

"Being the only Maritime athlete on the team, I'm sure the recommendation is being directed toward me."

NOW HIS TURN

And Mullins, now a student at the University of Nebraska, in turn raps the BEG team officials.

He says the officials of the Canadian team were incompetent and unorganized and the team was "the most poorly organized there."

"The officials spent more time in the reception parlors than in taking care of athletes who were presumably under their care . . .

"The coaches knew nothing of times, training methods, etc. Canada is far behind the rest of the world in its coaching techniques, organization and selection."

Can't Even Spell Fight . . .

. . . List Includes Patterson

'Just Bums, Nothing but Bums' Says Conn

By JIMMY CANNON

NEW YORK (NANA) — Billy Conn, who was a fighter of exquisite skills, believes the modern pugs are disgracing the trade at which he excelled.

"They should all get jobs," said Conn yesterday as he examined this generation of fighters with a nasty candor. "The kind of money they make today, anyone who wants to be a fighter should be put away. They can't fight. Guys have four or five fights and they're in main events on the television. They haven't time to learn. What do they know? How can they be good?"

We were having lunch at Shor's. At 41, Conn's still handsome and prosperous.

"I love those stories about guys offering Rocky Marciano $1,000,000, tax free, to make a comeback," said the great old light-heavyweight. "I can offer him a million, too. They offer the money to get their names in the paper and disappear when it comes time to put it up. Everything about the fight racket is phony now."

He admires Marciano.

"He was like a tank," said the guy who twice fought Joe Louis. "He just kept going. There was only one way to fight him. You had to go from side to side, in and out. If you stopped once, he'd nail you. Marciano could beat all the heavyweights now at one time. They could all get in the ring together and he'd take them, the same night, in a battle royal and belt them out."

I told him I thought that Floyd Patterson had the elements of greatness but his reputation was being maimed by the ineptness of his challengers.

I tried to explain that Cus D'Amato, who manages Patterson, has been guided by principle in his crusade against the International Boxing Club. He is attempting to break the monopoly the firm has on the fight racket and refuses to allow the heavyweight champion to fight pugs who are connected with the IBC.

"He looks like an amateur to me, too," said Conn. "Passing up all that money to fight nothing but bums? What's he trying to prove? Don't give me anything about fighting for principle. You fight for money. I was a professional fighter. I fought for money. What else do you fight for? I was never an amateur in my life. I had a friend who was an amateur. He got a medal for winning an amateur title. I went with him to the hock shop. You know how much they loaned him for the medal? Two dollars and fifty cents."

BILLY CONN
. . . always a pro

No one in the fight racket, Conn insisted, can afford to pass up a big touch. You don't last long, he explained, and there are just so many big scores you can take down. You wait, he said, and it's time to quit or you get beaten.

"You fight everybody," he said. "You fight everybody you can make a big pay-day with. Can you imagine D'Amato letting that Zora Folley and Eddie Machen get away from him. They did, and now they're licked and what could he get with them? Zora Folley and Eddie Machen . . . they can't even spell fight. These bums around nowadays — they wouldn't even make Joe Louis' club.

"I mean the 'Bum of the Month Club.' He'd knock Patterson out, too. The first 10 heavyweights. The ones supposed to be the best, on all the lists. Not one of them can fight."

There is one exception that Conn makes.

"Archie Moore," said Conn, "he was a good fighter. He can still fight a bit and, he must be near 50 years old. A big deal, the way Patterson knocked him out. Poor Archie was—an old man when he fought Patterson. But the rest of them ought to be ashamed of themselves. They're not fighters. I don't know what they are, but they're not fighters."

He talked about his son, Timmy, who this summer in a sandlot league pitched two no-hitters.

"He'll have to lick me first if he wanted to be a fighter," Conn said. "I'd like to see him be a ballplayer. He's a left-handed pitcher with plenty of ability. Six-four, 16 years old."

There are a few fighters who entertain Conn but they're not heavyweights.

"Ray Robinson's an old man but he's great," Conn said. "Carmen Basilio is a real tough guy who can lick all these mugs. Joe Brown can fight pretty good. He knows his way around. That's about all. The rest are a lot of bums. They aren't worth watching for nothing on television."

Durable Durelle Still Unconvinced

. . . For Next July

MONTREAL — It seems almost certain today that Archie Moore and Yvon Durelle will meet here again next July in a repeat performance of Wednesday's classic light-heavyweight championship bout.

Promoter Eddie Quinn said Truman Gibson, president of the International Boxing Club agreed with him. Both fighters are agreeable, and there can be no doubt about the sentiments of fight fans.

Moore, who became the all-time knockout king with Wednesday's 11th-round victory, said he would like to meet the game Canadian fisherman [illegible]

"He put on a tremendous fight and deserves another shot," Moore said. "One thing though, he'll have to agree not to have any important fights until then. He and I can make a lot of money the next time."

A return bout between Moore and the 29-year-old Canadian and British Empire [illegible] paid $89,940 Wednesday especially now that Durelle has proved himself as something far better than the 4-1 underdog he was Wednesday. A summer fight at Montreal baseball park could accommodate a crowd of 25,000 or more.

As for Durelle, he summed up his feelings on the matter [illegible] if I were to meet him again and I want to very much."

But while everyone was discussing a return match, the ageless Moore was juggling other irons in the boxing fires. Manager Jack Kearns was talking about championship bouts ranging from middleweight and [illegible] arrangements were being completed for a [illegible]

[illegible] middleweight ruler Ray Robinson. But Moore insists that he will fight no one in America until his return bout with Durelle.

"I've tried to get those others to fight me several times before and they didn't want to. Now let them wait."

Moore needs only one more [illegible] to equal the class record of eight established by Mickey Rosenbloom back in the early 1930s.

Wednesday's victory was his fifth straight knockout in a defence of the title he won six years ago from Joey Maxim. His latest unbeaten streak has reached 16.

Moore hasn't been beaten by a lightheavyweight in seven years. He said Thursday he'll [illegible] contender accomplished that feat on Dec. 10, 1951, but Archie has whipped him four times including a knockout in a title fight.

Arch Greeted 'Old' Friend

MONTREAL (AP) — One of Archie Moore's first thoughts after he'd survived four knockdowns to retain his light heavyweight championship Wednesday night was of a woman in her 90s and an 11-year-old boy he first met only two months ago.

Interviewed by television announcer Jack Drees seconds after he had kayoed Yvon Durelle, Archie said he wanted to send his regards to the woman and the boy in a La Jolla, Calif., hospital.

Reporters asked him on Thursday to elaborate.

"The woman is about 95 I guess and she is confined to bed most of the time," Archie said. "I don't remember her name. The boy is Ian McLean. He's 11, and was having trouble with his eyes.

"I learned about them from our baby's private nurse, a Mrs. Davies, in San Diego. She asked me if I could visit them and cheer them up.

The woman is a remarkable person. Why she can even read a newspaper without her glasses. Imagine, at that age.

"I hoped they both were watching the fight and I said hello to them on television hoping it would make them feel better."

DETROIT (UPI) — After nearly a dozen years of missing, and miss rookies up through the farm system to introducing them with a flare of publicity and then seeing them [illegible] the Detroit Red Wings have come up with a [illegible] who was born in Detroit.

He's Charlie Burns, a centre who never played a game of pro hockey before he signed the Wings two years ago but is a [illegible] Na[illegible] is one of the [illegible]

[illegible] was in the eye of [illegible] general manager [illegible] of the NHL and [illegible] Charlie to the [illegible] [illegible] but they forgot [illegible] about that after a few practice sessions as Burns won himself a spot.

[illegible] seems to go down [illegible] National League record books. He's got the speed of [illegible]

[illegible] said [illegible] Red Wings coach [illegible] who now is director of the club's scouting organization. He gets in there and mixes and fights for the puck every second he's on the ice. He goes and goes and has forwards and that's the reason. No one will push him around.

Burns isn't content to spot on the ice. He's always in the thick of things and it makes no difference where the puck is. And he wears a seven-ounce leather and sponge rubber helmet.

Six years ago last month it looked as though Burns' hockey career was ended at the age of 16.

The black-haired crewcut youngster was practising with the Toronto Marlboros leading a rush down the ice. He tripped and slid head-first into the boards suffering a double skull fracture. Two weeks later a blood clot developed and surgeons had to cut into his skull above his right ear to save his life.

They [illegible] set a pear-shaped three-inch metal plate above the ear. Charlie wouldn't give up hockey though and started playing [illegible] in the Toronto hockey league. Although born in Detroit he was raised in Toronto by an aunt and uncle after his mother died when he was six months old.

Conn Smythe of the Maple Leafs heard about Burns and he went back to the Marlies and then to Whitby, a senior A club, playing there two years. Adams put him on the [illegible] negotiated last [illegible] between Russo and [illegible] Wings.

The Wings thought [illegible] [illegible] Charlie to the [illegible] [illegible] but they forgot [illegible] about that after a few practice sessions as Burns won himself a spot.

Spaniard Loses, Earns Plaudits

MELBOURNE (AP) — The battled Wimbledon champion Victorian tennis champion Ashley Cooper of Australia shape moved toward a routine in three hours in rain and cold victory today with Australian Thursday before bowing in a fans still enthusiastic about a semi-final match 16 13-11, [illegible]

He is Andres Gimeno, wily young Spaniard who

"In 12 months there won't be an amateur in the world who can touch him," said Colin Long of the Melbourne Herald, former Davis Cup player. Most observers agreed.

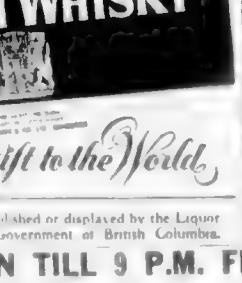
"I don't see how he can keep from winning Wimbledon," added pro promoter Jack Kramer.

COOPER RATED TOP

Cooper who has won virtually every big title in the world and is generally rated the game's top amateur went into the men's final round against his Davis Cup teammate and old adversary Mal Anderson. The latter won another marathon duel defeating left-handed Neale Fraser of Australia 6-3 3-6 2-6 11-9 6-3.

Meanwhile the United States Davis Cup team's trip to Perth for the interzone final was delayed by the six-hour stopover program staged in honor Gen Wards and occasioned rain.

'Up front is where I need protection' Says Dick Shatto.



The versatile Argonaut backfielder was talking about winter protection for his car. "Prestone" Brand is the only anti-freeze that gave me complete protection up front in the cooling system of my car. Sure it protects against frost, foaming and clogging . . . but that's not all — not by a long shot," said the Big Four star. "Prestone" Anti-Freeze with magnetic film stops rust and corrosion, too."

Dick has been well drilled in the signals to call when he asks for anti-freeze. Only with "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze does he get magnetic film which coats every rubber and metal surface in a car's cooling system. That's why he insists on "Prestone" Anti-Freeze. You do the same — and make sure that's what you get by looking for the distinctive Green Tag which will be attached to your radiator.

Campy Draws Tributes For Courage, Humility

NEW YORK (AP) — Roy Campanella heard himself described Wednesday night as one of the great men of the United States and one who has done more for Negroes in baseball than any man of his race.

The tributes were heaped upon the paralyzed Los Angeles catcher by Nelson A. Rockefeller, New York state governor-elect, and baseball commissioner Ford Frick at a dinner tendered by the Kiwanis Club of New York honoring Campy as "man of the year."

President Eisenhower sent a telegram which praised Campanella for his "courage, generosity, tremendous spirit, humility and good humor."

U.S. College Coaches Won't Bar Canadians

ANN ARBOR Mich. (AP) — Doon Canham, coach of the University of Michigan's international - flavored track [illegible] proposal to bar aliens from U.S. National Collegiate Athletic Association meets.

"I don't think it has a chance of going through," said Canham, whose four best performers reside abroad.

Big Ten Conference coaches have mapped a recommendation that would keep foreign students out of NCAA track and field championships.

They still would be permitted to compete within their conferences. Michigan is a member of the Big Ten.

Canham said approval of the national group would no force a change in his recruiting method.

TO KEEP RECRUITING

"No I certainly wouldn't stop recruiting Canadians and other foreigners," Canham said. "Just because a rule is turned down at the national collegiates doesn't bar him at Michigan.

Canham expects to find a strong contender for both Big Ten and national honors in the Canadian-born Olympian [illegible] from the national collegiates doesn't bar him at Michigan.

Canham expects to find a strong contender for both Big Ten and national honors in the outstanding indoor and outdoor star who has been sparkled by Ferris Lenz storm a path into prominence from Fife and Pete Stanger the Big Ten outdoor champion at the 220-yard low hurdles from Montreal Tom Rose ran a British Empire sprint champion from Barbados at 3-3 Seib, an outstanding half-miler from British Columbia.

Northwestern's veteran coach Charles (Rip) Walter disclosed the proposal in Chicago Monday.

"It has got to be a joke the way some coaches are going out and recruiting overseas," Walter said. "We no longer have national championships — they are international.

"Some schools actually are recruiting as much in foreign countries as they are here. It has got to where we are training boys who will come back and beat us in the Olympics."

Track coach Fran Dittrich of Michigan State University at Lansing another college that has had a number of successful [illegible] proposal. Dittrich said that it the recommendation is adopted it would affect the schools policies in Canada.

"Most of the Canadians who come here are talked into the move by other Canadians who are attending or previously attended the school. I don't think the recommendation will be adopted because the Big Ten already has a rule which stipulates that alien athletes lose one year of eligibility for each year they are over 20 years of age at the time of enrollment. I voted for this rule because I think it is right but it is unfair to bar a boy from competing in athletics just because he [illegible]

By Chicago meetings Walter emphasized there is no intention of making an exception for Canadians under the recommended rule.

Door Open for Compromise

Soviet Atom Stand Softens

GENEVA, Switzerland (CP) — Allied fallout soothers said here yesterday that Russia was softening its opposition to the U.S. demand that nuclear explosions for peaceful purposes be exempt from any future test ban.

Easing of the Soviet stand was reported by sources at the conference which completed its sixth week of test ban talks with a hard-bargaining session lasting 2½ hours.

But another Geneva East-West meeting, the deadlocked conference on surprise attacks, heard the sharpest and most intemperate Soviet outburst against the West since that 10-nation gathering got under way Nov. 10.

Soviet First Deputy Foreign Minister W. W. Kuznetsov, in an address which was blasted as a "cold war" blast, accused the West of "Trojan horse" tactics that would increase the danger of surprise attacks. He alleged that the main aim of the West was to ferret out the location of Soviet missile sites.

Nuclear conference sources said the Russians, who previously had insisted that a nuclear test ban allow no exceptions, had now at least left the door open for compromise.

Conference sources said the Soviets thus far had not committed themselves on the issue formally in the treaty negotiations.

But they were understood to be coming around slowly to the U.S. and British-backed idea that tests that were limited strictly to peaceful purposes should not be barred.

Missiles Bristle On World's Roof

By DONALD WISE
London Daily Express Staff Reporter

ON THE TIBETAN BORDER (UPI) — A quarter of a million Chinese, working under the direction of Russian [illegible] the roof of the world to [illegible] with the deadliest pattern of missile launching pads facing the Free World.

Five two dozen of mote pads stretch from the northwestern frontier of India opposite Bhutan along the Himalayas to the Karakoram mountain range against the Indian and Pakistani frontiers of Kashmir.

In terms of what the West already knows of the 6,000 mile Russian intercontinental ballistic missile Rhumb war heads could be fired off the Tibetan plateau to hit accurately at targets in the world except maybe parts of Africa and America.

What makes these launching pads so deadly is their altitude. Anywhere in this huge Soviet area the Reds have a three to five-mile start over the West at launching. What this means in terms of added flight range of an ICBM is not accurately known. But it must certainly be [illegible] since missile men [illegible] in the [illegible] range of the [illegible].

The launch pads' [illegible] plan which is being pressed ahead at [illegible] speed, is the third stage of Red Chinese military [illegible] in Tibet.

[illegible] from Mao [illegible] to [illegible] in which they know how and [illegible] was given by Premier Nikita Khrushchev when he flew to Peking with an entourage of military [illegible] and heavy [illegible] Mao Tse-tung's [illegible] against Nehru.

Following the two-day military meeting, officials from Britain, the United States, France and West Germany will meet Saturday to prepare the way for a special meeting of the four countries' foreign ministers.

It [illegible] a full-scale session of NATO foreign [illegible] and finance ministers [illegible] Tuesday in Paris next week.

[illegible] of all 15 NATO powers except Iceland were attending the military session.

Three-Mile Jump Red Advantage In Himalayas

* * *

Around 1954 with his fifth column of [illegible] traders and teachers, all of them members of politics as commissars thoroughly spying out the land, the Red dictator sent his nine and [illegible] soldiers scrambling up the sacked passes and ravines from Lang-chow on to the Tibetan plateau.

As each [illegible] ground up roads which engineers were blasting and building just ahead of them, with cheap gifts of textiles and alcohol to keep the liberated happy Mao ordered his soldiers to inter marry with the Tibetans.

Stage one of infiltration paved the way for stage two absorption of the local population and the erection of military bases.

Strongpoints were built into Tibetan villages so well camouflaged that from the air [illegible] could be spotted.

Then came the go-ahead for the rocket pads.

The Russian engineers could dispense with one enormous [illegible] confronting Western rocketeers. Their pads are of natural mountain rock. They just had to pick flat sites or blast off irregularities of surface. Countdown chambers were drilled into the mountain sides like their base bunkers.

What a Red banquet! The pads with their huge complex of bunkers, bases and airfields perched them are to all intents impregnable. From the south they are sheltered by the sheer side of the Himalayas into which they are built; from the north by the vast land mass of China and her 600,000,000 people.

'Briggs in a Mess'—Martin

VANCOUVER (CP) — Health Minister Eric Martin said Wednesday night that H. Lee Briggs, former general manager of the British Columbia Power Commission, made his accusations because the Social Credit government would have found out the mess he was in.

His accusation probably the strongest against Mr. Briggs since he was dismissed from his post after attacking government [illegible] at a Kiwanis and party meeting at a church club.

Mr. Martin said Mr. Briggs resigned from the power commission because he was in a mess and he wanted to pull the whole house of cards down with him.

"This government has watched the power commission closely and Briggs knew he would be found out."

The government has ordered a royal commission to investigate Mr. Briggs' charges.

Hecklers in the audience became so enthusiastic at times that violence appeared imminent. At one point during Mr. Martin's speech a heckler jumped up and yelled: "Don't try to bully people. And don't shake your finger at me."

"I've not shouted louder men than you," the health minister retorted. "If this is a contest I'll out-shout you."

Hot Nuts Machine Deal Unprofitable, Court Told

Four witnesses in Saanich police court Tuesday told of excessive fees offered them almost surreptitiously by the same man on a proposition which a fifth witness testified was not profitable.

Fay Appeal before Magistrate Hoey A. Hall during the second day of preliminary hearing of Reginald Sampson Everett, auto mechanic of Victoria, and Herbert Edwards of Vancouver on a charge of attempting to defraud Gordon Cumming, 555 Wiltshire, of $1,590.

Mr. and Mrs. Cumming, who testified a week ago in the hearing's first day, were recalled yesterday for cross-examination by Robert T. Harvey, defence counsel. They said they had been led by accused on Nov. 5 to believe they would have exclusive rights in the sale by vending machines of hot nuts in an area extending 30 miles from Victoria.

Cost of the 20 machines to them would be $1,590 — three-quarters of the price as a down payment.

Similar testimony was given the court by Leonard Keller, 3821 Arbutus Drive, who said he signed an agreement in October, a copy of which was given to him. He said he paid $1,000 to Peter Anderson, 402 Gorge East, who also signed on Nov. 1 contract and cheque and to Everett, H. Armstrong, 511 Mckenzie Avenue, Saanich.

Mr. Armstrong told the court he refused to accept on Nov. 26 the offer to buy a machine. He said he would not sign anything until he had seen the machine. He heard nothing further from accused.

Each witness said he had been offered a guarantee of $300 return for the first months operation of the machines. Mr. Armstrong said he asked accused why this was only for the first month when the newspaper advertisement through which all met accused offered $400 per month.

Then he said accused told him was a misprint by the paper.

Dwight Adam Rathbun of West Saanich place told the court under questioning by [illegible] Proudfoot that he was interested in the sale of the vending machines.

Have you any interesting [illegible]? he was asked.

Yes, I.

Where are they now?

I am in process of pulling them off location and pulling them back in the warehouse. I don't make any money out of them, not more than $2 a week.

How much did you pay for these machines?

I put $18 apiece for them.

Witness said he had examined a vending machine taken from accused's car.

I would pay no more than $18 for it, he said, but I'd prefer to pay $13.

Would you pay $106 for such a machine?" Mr. Proudfoot asked.

I sure wouldn't.

Total price of the 20 machines offered by accused to prospects was $2,120 — or 20 times $106.

Each man approached by accused, told the court they were given to understand they'd have exclusive rights with the machines in Greater Victoria: Cumming within a 30-mile radius; Rathbun in Vancouver Island south from Nanaimo and Anderson also within a 30-mile radius.

Armstrong said he understood he would have the territory as far as Duncan and in Duncan if he wished but that after two months if he did not wish to expand then accused's company, the Canadian Trading Company would be free to sell 20 machines to someone else.

The hearing was adjourned until next Thursday, with Mr. Proudfoot saying there were still a number of witnesses to be heard.

Feb. 12, 1958 was set in Saanich police court yesterday for preliminary hearing of Capt. Patrick N. Morrison, B.C. Pilotage officer from South Burnaby, on a charge of criminal negligence.

Charge arises from the death last Aug. 22 of Capt. William Boyce, also a pilotage officer from Vancouver in a traffic crash at Trans-Canada Highway and Douglas on Aug. 21.

Bail of $2,000 was continued.

City Council Team Returns Intact

'Outsiders' Beat

Aldermen Re-Elected

Four aldermen were reelected in Victoria yesterday, and Mayor Percy Scurrah said last night, "I'm glad the team remains intact."

The aldermen echoed his sentiments.

Ald. Austin I. Curtis led the polls with 5,257 votes at the first count. Following him were Ald. Arthur Dowell, senior member of city council with 4,973, Ald. Hugh Ramsay with 4,434 and Ald. Elmer McEwen with 3,801.

Three outside candidates were defeated. They were Mrs. Sally Rogers housewife with 3,009 votes, A. W. Toone Victoria Labor Council secretary-treasurer with 2,680 and Elgin Nash, commercial fisherman, with 1,180.

Mayor Scurrah said he was glad to see the [illegible] reelected. "After all, we have worked as a [illegible] worked hard and I'm certainly glad to see the team remain intact."

He was especially glad though that there had been a contest, he said. "There weren't as many candidates as I would have liked to have seen, either."

"Council has been doing a good job and I think the people are satisfied with it. I hope we can continue to move ahead well," said Ald. McEwen. "We are all able to work together with Mayor Scurrah."

More Issues

Turnouts Better, Still Bad

Interest in a reeveship contest, amalgamation, sewer plans and a parking plan outweighed disadvantageous weather enough yesterday to produce slightly heavier voting than in last year's municipal elections.

But the voting still wasn't heavy enough to please municipal officials.

"It's better than last year, but it's nothing to brag about," observed city returning officer M. Frank Hunter.

About 33.5 per cent of eligible city voters turned out compared with 29.6 per cent last year. In Saanich the returning officer described voting as "slightly heavier" than last year when 33 per cent of the eligible voters cast ballots.

In Oak Bay, where the reeveship was contested for the first time in 10 years, the turnout was 44.1 per cent. Last year 29 per cent voted.

In Esquimalt the turnout was poor, comparing this year's 31.1 per cent against last year's 47 per cent.

Vote-Watchers Fire Hazard

Citizens eager to learn the voting results at city headquarters above the firehall caused some anxious moments for firemen last night.

About 10 p.m. there were so many cars parked on Cormorant Street in front of the hall it would have been impossible to get a fire truck out of the building.

Police were called to clear the street.

Recount Today in Oak Bay

Murdoch Edges In By Only 76 Votes

Reeve-elect George Murdoch of Oak Bay fired from ambush victory at the polls last night promised to open the doors of the municipal hall wider to give ratepayers more information about the affairs of the municipality.

He narrowly defeated Louis Patrick Bailey in a race which remained in doubt until the last few votes were counted. Final result was Murdoch 1,681 to Bailey's 1,605 votes.

RECOUNT TODAY

Returning officer A. D. Findlay said there will be a recount this morning of votes cast for reeve.

In a victory statement Mr. Murdoch, a veteran of Oak Bay council, said, "I would like to see more information given to the public than there has been up to now.

"The public must be kept informed," he said widely. "If the people are kept up to date on what's going on, as doing and what's doing [illegible] that it about what to vote for."

He declined to discuss his policy for Oak Bay until he formally council meeting on January.

MORE NEWS

"I [illegible] more news for the [illegible] Mr. Murdoch said.

Three incumbents were returned to office for the next three years. They are Roger H. Mathews, who headed the polls with 2,519, William Geoffrey Ellis with 2,485 and Fred Allen Robinson with 2,406.

[illegible] are 31-year-old Alan Lesue Cox, who polled 2,250 votes and Gordon Elworthy, 32, with 2,015.

LOSERS NEWCOMERS

Losers in the council race were also newcomers [illegible] Arthur de Roo [illegible] with 1,793 votes and John Douglas Watts with 1,703.

Councillors Murdoch and [illegible] regard their seats in council [illegible] the reeve [illegible] Reeve Fred Norris [illegible] was retiring.

Mr. Murdoch, chairman of the Capital Region Planning Board, a post which must be held by an elected representative of one of the member [illegible]

"That is my one regret," said Mr. Bailey after the ballots were counted.

Reeve-elect Murdoch said: "I am very pleased with the victory although I'd like to have seen a larger majority . . . but of course we haven't too many voters."

LITTLE NEWS

Outgoing Reeve James Horth [illegible] for allowing the public to get a better picture of what is going on in the council he added. "I think the press must have got tired of the bits but of news they were allowed to get from council."

Feelings of all those who ran were summed up by Mr. Elworthy who said, "That was a close one, wasn't it?"

Sees Job Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) The United States Chamber of Commerce has predicted a five per cent rise in jobs, production and income in the U.S. in 1959.

Dr. Emerson P. Schmidt, the chamber's chief economist, foresaw on Thursday a gradual rise to a record national output of around $475,000,000,000 next year and added: "In 1960 we should with ease cross the $500,000,000,000 mark at today's prices."

Oak Bay Can't Recall Last Contest for Reeve

It's been so long, Oak Bay municipal officials last night couldn't remember exactly when the reeveship was last contested.

Returning officer A. D. Findlay, municipal clerk, said: "I can't remember the date off hand, but it must be at least 15 years."

Retiring reeve Fred Norris also said he was not certain, and guessed it was "10 or 12 years ago."

* * *

One ratepayer, Gordon Jennings claimed he and his wife were on the voters' list the past three years and both voted as [illegible] property owners. However this year Mrs. Jennings was not on the list and was refused a vote.

The returning officer said later there were five or six cases through the fault of one side or the other, where ratepayers were not on the voters list. Under the provisions of the Municipal Act, he added, nothing could be done to rectify this [illegible]

* * *

Out of the total of 3,295 votes cast in Oak Bay there were 41 spoiled ballots and 16 rejected.

Pats on back were given by Reeve George Chatterton, second from right, to victorious Saanich councillors Ainslie Worthington, left, Harold Todd and George Austin.

Light Vote

Esquimalt Elects

Two veteran councillors and one newcomer were ousted in Esquimalt last night after voters straggled to the polls during the day in what elec[illegible] described as a "[illegible] turnout."

Coun. James Bryant, seeking his fifth consecutive [illegible] term on the [illegible] council, headed the polls with 803 votes.

Newcomer Edward Lawrence De Costa won a seat with 792 votes and Coun. F. Vincent Rush was re-elected with 731 votes.

Mrs. E. A. Browne trailed with 581 votes.

Counting of the 1,125 ballots took just one hour. After close to 12 per cent of the 3,631 eligible voters took the trouble to go to the polls.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele said he was disappointed in the small [illegible] of electors who turned out.

Returning officer James Elrick said there was "no interest" in the election. There was no issue at stake, he said and the voters are satisfied with the people that are in office.

Reeve Wurtele congratulated the councillors who were re-elected and welcomed the new councillor. He congratulated Mrs. Browne for the record showing she made [illegible] within 151 votes of being elected.

The successful candidates expressed their thanks to the voters.

Mr. De Costa said he would do his best to justify the confidence placed in him.

Coun. Bryant said he would [illegible] his decade of service working for the betterment of the municipality.

Coun. Rush said, "I hope I can serve the taxpayers to the best of my ability."

Mrs. Browne who was un[illegible] said she was very disappointed [illegible] successful in her second bid for a seat [illegible] council. [illegible] voters stayed away from the polls. I'm a good loser.

She was unsuccessful in a [illegible] election [illegible] vote.

Mrs. Browne said [illegible] understand [illegible] of ignorance [illegible] voters who [illegible] know Thursday was voting day.

Incumbents Stay

Saanich Rejects Changes

Saanich's three incumbent councillors were last night returned to office, but in two cases close decisions were the order.

George Austin, the grand old man of the council, topped the polls with 1,116 votes, almost 200 more than the next [illegible]

The two newcomers, Ainslie Worthington and Harold Todd, scored 1,116 and 1,111 votes respectively against [illegible] for the [illegible] Mrs. Lorna Lee and 2,003 by Reginald Cairns.

Coun. Austin led from the first poll counted at Saanich municipal hall and was never threatened. Mr. Cairns got [illegible] votes in first [illegible] of these and led Coun. Worthington in the Lands [illegible] He led both Coun. Todd and Coun. Worthington in the St. George's [illegible]

Saanich Votes 'No' to Sewers

Saanich council's $1,700,000 sewer scheme proposal was narrowly defeated last night by the final returns from yesterday's voting.

Only ballots from the St. George's polling station at Cadboro Bay were counted it appeared almost certain the two money bylaws would be approved by the required 60 per cent majority.

Cadboro Bay is a major part of the area in which Saanich council proposed to install sewers.

The bylaw authorizing construction of the treatment plant had a 61 per cent majority of voters in favor and the bylaw for the construction of laterals had 58 per cent majority before the Cadboro Bay figures came in.

The final percentages were 55 per cent in favor of the plant and 53.6 per cent in favor of the laterals.

Until about 9.30 p.m. the percentages were 70 per cent for the plant and exactly 60 per cent for the laterals.

Reeve George Chatterton was not dismayed by the [illegible] defeat of the bylaws [illegible] at the end of the vote counting.

"I am absolutely positive the sewers will go through soon," he said. "I will recommend to council that we have a special vote on the proposal some time during the middle of next year."

Reeve Chatterton said he felt election statements about five mills tax increase in 1959 had frightened a number of voters into rejecting the sewerage scheme.

"The majority of people want it and realize it is necessary," he said.

Rejection of the scheme will not hold up discussions of the plan to force urban development into the area which council proposes to sewer, he said, as he has no doubt that the sewers will be approved soon.

Garden Notes

Ches Chooses Forsythia

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

As I think I mentioned before if I could have only one flowering shrub in my garden it would have to be one of the old-fashioned sweetly scented varieties of lilac. If my available space and the depth of my pocketbook would run to only two shrubs my second choice would be a Forsythia.

There are numerous these dainty golden bells [illegible] for spring. A mist before the winter is over. In fact almost every house we have visited with Forsythia sprays as early as January by the simple experiment of cutting the bare branches at will and bringing them indoors to open their buds in the warmth.

It is certainly a most undemanding shrub but it will [illegible] any kind of soil without attention and in the north east south or west side of the house. You can grow them in sun or shade. Against a wall as a specimen in the open and even in the rock garden for there are dwarf varieties admirably suited for this purpose.

* * *

As a companion for other shrubs [illegible] as I have already said [illegible] the varieties known as the intermedia group should be chosen. Probably the most popular specimen is Lynwood, very strong specimen which blooms very freely with deep yellow bells and with an erect and rather spraying habit of growth. Spectabilis but with a softer shade of yellow is the variety primulina.

These two are standard varieties asking for around $2 but there are especially selected strains which are even more beautiful. From Ireland comes Lynwood Gold which was discovered as a sport growing from a [illegible] shrub is more erect than the parent type and the branches literally smother themselves with the biggest golden bells ever seen on any Forsythia. It has a companion called Spring Glory and these are priced at around $3 each.

For variety on walls or for use the varieties of Forsythia suspensa are ideal. These have long whippy branches of pendulous habit almost a weeping habit of growth.

* * *

The varieties decussata and for that matter any and [illegible] are ideal for a hedge who wouldn't hanging branches of deep [illegible] Their [illegible] Don't can be bought for as [illegible] as $1.75 each.

The pruning of Forsythia is as easy as anything about the garden. Immediately the [illegible] is over the old wood to take room for new [illegible] growth but the treatment for these two groups [illegible] is somewhat different.

A new shoot on intermedia won't bear any flowers buds it has had at least two summers to ripen and harden its wood and will continue to bloom for several seasons thereafter. The trick here then is to maintain a supply of ripe but not old shoots [illegible] the oldest [illegible] the oldest growths at all they show signs of exhaustion.

* * *

The recommended time for pruning Forsythia is just after the flowering period but with intermedia it pays to do so [illegible] while the shrub is actively growing. Prune [illegible] with [illegible] Like lots of shrubs but the uses in the house but make your selection from shoots where the bases is a year on the previous. If [illegible] shoots out [illegible] [illegible] for pruning [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Esquimalt High Reunion

School Calling!

Chain letters will be circulated among former Esquimalt High School students in an effort to get the greatest possible attendance at a school reunion next May 15 at the school.

William McColl, spokesman for the reunion committee, said the first letters will be mailed Jan. 15. Former students will also be called by telephone.

Mr. McColl said he hopes at least 500 of the students who attended the school between 1915 and 1950 will come to the big reunion.

Old friendships perhaps even romances may be renewed when a hospitality committee seats former students with their old classmates.

Bringing back the gay days of yesteryear, an array of old class pictures will line the school corridor as another means of bringing the good old days back to life.

Mantha Murder Case

'Oh God Help Me' Cry in the Night

A shrill scream of terror pierced the 2 a.m. stillness of the naval cabin and a young sailor woke to hear someone saying "Help me. Oh God help me."

Testifying at the Mantha murder trial yesterday was naval storeman Ronald Cooke who shared the four-bed Room 150 in Naden's Nelles Block with knife victim Aaron Bud Jenkins.

Charged with Jenkins' slaying Sept. 6 is 31-year-old tug boat hand Leo Anthony Mantha.

ALONE IN ROOM

Cooke told Assize Court yesterday that he was alone in the room when he went to bed at about 11 p.m. Sept. 5 and fell asleep at about 11.30.

"I heard screaming which more or less woke me up. . . . I was semi-conscious," he said. "I heard someone saying 'Help me. Oh God help me' and I woke up.

"I sat up in bed and saw this figure coming toward my bed. Cooke said he then turned on his bed-lamp.

FELL ON FLOOR

"I saw someone he later identified him as Jenkins with blood coming from his nose and mouth. He headed for the door and fell on the floor."

The wounded man had no clothes on, Cooke said.

The high-pitched scream and the words of supplication were also heard by duty sentry OS William Gray and OS Wesley Anderson, who had just returned from shore leave and was in civilian clothes.

RAN DOWN CORRIDOR

Gray said he ran down the corridor of B Deck but went two doors too far.

"I turned around," he said, and the door of Cabin 150 flew open and this person came out and fell in the hallway.

He was on his back and seemed to be struggling. I turned him over, pried open his mouth and tried to give him artificial respiration."

BODY ON STRETCHER

Then the medical assistants arrived and put the body on the stretcher, Cooke said.

He went into the room briefly to see if any windows had been broken. While he was there he noticed a blood-stained knife on the floor, he said.

Anderson said he saw the body lying in a pool of blood in the hallway. He was moaning. I stayed there 15 minutes until they took him away," he said.

Duty petty officer CPO Charles Cluff told of being in Cabin 150 shortly after Jenkins body was taken to Naden hospital.

A messenger "came from the sick bay," he said. "They wanted his blood group but couldn't find his dogtags. All his ID identity card didn't show his grouping.

FIVE MEANS OF ENTRY

CPO Cluff showed the jury by means of a chart that there were five means of entry to B deck: two fire doors, two swinging doors and the main stairwell.

He also confirmed that naval ratings are permitted to wear civilian clothing when going on shore leave and when returning to barracks.

NO TRANSFUSIONS

Sick bay attendant Joseph Lazarenko said that to his knowledge Jenkins did not receive any blood transfusions.

Police Chief Gilbert Stancombe at Esquimalt told of finding in Jenkins locker a diary, notebook, cards and letters.

Was there anything else most unusual to find in a man's locker?" asked defence counsel George Gregory.

Anything special that struck in your mind?"

UNUSUAL LETTERS

"There was a letter from a man of a kind unusual to find in a man's possession," said the chief.

I didn't mean a letter," said Mr. Gregory. "Was there any thing else?"

"No."

"Did you see a lipstick?"

"No. There could have been a lipstick but I wouldn't have noticed it."

TWO LETTERS READ

Crown prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie then read two letters found in Jenkins locker. Both were in Mantha's handwriting, court was told.

One was addressed to "Dearest Budgie Wudgie" and signed "Much love and kisses, Leo."

The second was addressed "Dear Budgie Wudgie" and was signed "All my love, Leo."

TWO THEORIES

Chief Stancombe told court that he had two theories as to the killing after he arrived at Naden early Sept. 6.

One was suicide, he said and the other was that a second could have been inflicted the night before in Victoria and that an injured artery could have caused death later while Jenkins was in bed.

The chief also related a conversation he had at Naden at 4.35 a.m. Sept. 6 with Donald Perry, 36, a bartender and Jenkins' first cousin. Perry had shared an apartment at 451 Superior with Mantha.

FIGHT WITH MANTHA

"I saw my cousin at 11.30 p.m. Sept. 5 at the Empress Hotel," the chief quoted Perry and he said he'd had a fight with Leo Mantha at my Perry's apartment where Leo lives.

He was with Stan Prentek of HMCS Stettler. He had blood on his T-shirt . . . he was drinking but he was sober," Chief Stancombe quoted further.

The "trial within a trial" which had been delaying regular proceedings since shortly after the trial opened Monday ended yesterday.

REPORTS PROHIBITED

During the closed trial the jury had been excluded and reports in the press were prohibited.

Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan ruled that statements Mantha made to city detectives at 451 Superior were admissible but a statement made later at the city detective office was inadmissible.

Blasting Cap Victims Show Big Improvement

Two youths injured in a blasting cap explosion Tuesday have shown a marked improvement, a spokesman for St. Joseph's Hospital said last night.

Both Allan Bosma, 13½, of 741 Goldstream, and Herbert McWilliam, 14, of 314 Goldstream, had nearly identical injuries to eyes, face, right hand and right leg.

It will be two day more before it is known how badly the Bosma boy's eyes were damaged by the blast, the spokesman said.

Beach Ball Set by Petland 'Elsa'

Horses' Party

NEW YORK AP — Mary Simpson, who is known as "the Elsa Maxwell of the pet set," has an odd profession and a unique ambition. She wants to throw a beach party for horses.

"A beach is an ideal place for such a party," she explained. Horses love the surf, but most of them rarely get to

This pretty blue-eyed blonde, Miss Simpson, an employee of the Hess Brothers department store in Allentown, Pa., is the world's only pet party consultant, at least as far as she knows.

"People enjoy doing special things for their pets on special occasions, as they do with their dogs. But many don't know how to make a party come off.

Miss Simpson does. If possible, she likes to go over the animal guest list in advance, just as a professional social hostess might.

Animals don't differ much from human beings at a party, she observed. "They catch the air of excitement. Cats have their showoffs and their wallflowers. You have to be sure the guests will get along."

So far, I haven't supervised a party where we mixed cats and mice, parakeets or cats and dogs. But we've had a number of cat and dog mixed parties that came off very well. . . . Cats and monkeys also get along well at parties."

'Abductors' Accused

OTTO JOHN
. . . woke behind curtain

KARLSRUHE, Germany (UPI)—The puzzling treason case involving West Germany's former security chief and a Berlin physician set the stage for a tense courtroom scene yesterday when the two principals angrily exchanged accusations.

Dr. Otto John, the ousted official, accused Dr. Wolfgang Wohlgemuth of taking him to Communist Germany in a kidnapping plot. Wohlgemuth, on trial for alleged treasonous relations with the Reds, retorted that John was drunk and defected to the East on his own.

The obviously - agitated John told the court that Wohlgemuth drugged his coffee, drove him into the Soviet sector of Berlin and turned him over to the Reds.

The Otto John case has been one of the most mysterious in West Germany's postwar history. Only one fact is known: On the night of July 20, 1954, John and Wohlgemuth disappeared together from West Berlin and appeared in East Berlin. Both men admit that, John was arrested on his return to West Berlin in December, 1955. He was convicted a year later on charges of treason and sentenced to four years imprisonment. He was released last July.

Wohlgemuth has denied drugging John and was supported by his former nurse.

"Wohlgemuth drove at a crazy speed from his office . . . turned left into a side street and then I lost consciousness, first waking the next day," John testified.

U.S. Through With IRBMs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defence department officials reported yesterday that prospects were dim that the United States would order any more intermediate range ballistic missiles after present production contracts expired.

Marathon Frogman Bogged Down by Ice

QUESNEL, B.C. (CP)—Louis Lourmais, a 38-year-old Frenchman attempting a 600-mile swim down the Fraser River to promote skin diving, drove south along the Fraser River on Thursday, trying to find a spot that isn't frozen.

Gordon Ross, speaking from the motel here where Lourmais stayed on Wednesday night, said the swimmer and frogman planned to drive to a point in the river where ice wouldn't halt his marathon swim from Prince George to Vancouver.

So far, swimming in frogman's rubber suit and braving water temperatures barely above the freezing mark, Lourmais has covered more than 100 miles.

He left Prince George a week ago and has been fighting ice constantly. He told Ross on Wednesday that he plans to complete the swim once he finds free-flowing water. Ice has kept him out of the swim for two days now.

It's No Time to Stop Looking Ahead—Hees

HAMILTON (CP)—Transport Minister Hees said Thursday he foresees a continued need for improved transportation facilities in Canada, unhindered by economic or climatic factors.

The minister said "the view that because of the economic slackening we experienced in our economy early in 1957, in common with other countries, we should defer looking north and planning for future development, is not as sound as it might have been a year ago.

"Today we are well on the road to recovery. Much of the lost ground has been regained. There is every reason for confidence in our ability to forge ahead to greater economic heights."

NEW YORK (AP)—Millions of readers in and around New York were without newspapers Thursday as major metropolitan dailies were shut down in a delivery men's strike.

Radio and television stations expanded their news programs to help fill the gap created by the absence of the 5,500,000 daily newspaper copies published in Manhattan and Queens.
